National Farm Safety And Health Week Begins Sunday

Course To Teach Fire, Rescue Personnel About Farm Dangers

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

IRISHTOWN (Adams Co.) — When do you start to "play it safe"? For Larry Feeser, Jr., it began the day when, as a 14 year-old, his tractor almost completely overturned. Luckily, he jumped off the back of it unharmed.

When do you learn to play it safe? Ask Larry's mother, Jean. In August, 1972, her husband, Larry, Sr., was working alone, loading silage. He was standing up against the trough. For some reason, he slipped, and his foot was caught in the auger and started to draw his leg in. Luckily, he grabbed onto a corn fork and pushed the off switch to stop the auger.

But it was some time — many agonizing minutes later — until Jean, who was milking cows, found him and was able to use a telephone in the barn to call neighbors and the fire department.

Somehow, the rescue people were able to work the foot out. Fortunately, the damage wasn't severe — but Jean knows it could have been a lot worse.

"His foot was mangled pretty badly," said Jean. After several months, Larry was able to regain use of the foot.

When do you finally play it safe? Larry recalls recently, when, at a tractor pull at the South Mountain Fair, several weights were sent flying in the air. Fortunately, the driver escaped serious harm. No bystanders were hurt in the incident. But it has the Feesers worried that something far more catastrophic could occur, and how much are fire companies and rescue people prepared?

"The fire service does care, and we're out there for farmers, as well as anybody involved in a vehicle accident," said Larry Jr. "We basically want to learn as much as we possibly can about the different styles and different types of farm machinery and how to handle the farm accident if it occurs."

As a seven-year member of the Irishtown Fire Department, Larry cooperated with the Adams County Farm Bureau when they paid for a special course to learn about farm accident rescue and recovery. In mid-April this year, Larry attended a 4½ day course at Alfred State College to teach and train rescue personnel in the tactics of farm rescue.

The course, called FARMEDIC, instructed 22 fire company representatives from Pennsylvania and other states in the tactics and strategies used to rescue and

"I could talk to 200 farmers and all 200 farmers could give me a farm-related accident," said Feeser. "Fire fighters are no different. They've seen things, they have done things, in the past, and they can insert at any time in a situation to handle it."

Farmers Risk Silo Fires From Dry Corn Plants

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — This summer's weather has made corn plants drier than usual, posing fire risks for farmers who wish to ensile the plants for animal feed.

At least five Pennsylvania farms have been hit by silo fires in recent weeks, and the conditions are perfect for more silo fires to start, warn experts in Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences.

Why does lack of corn moisture increase the risk of silo fires? "When you ferment corn plants in a silo, the fermentation process generates heat," said farm safety specialist and professor of agricul-

Pennsylvania DHIA Brings New Technology, Latest Management Tool Online

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — "The best handle on nutrition and reproduction management can be summed up in one number on the DHIA monthly report to farmers."

This is what officials of Pennsylvania DHIA are calling the new milk urea nitrogen (MUN) testing capabilities they are introducing to the state dairy industry starting on October 1.

"Milk urea testing gives us the opportunity to have an on-going method of consulting directly with the cow to take a look at the link between reproduction and nutrition management," said Dave Slusser, manager. Urea nitrogen is the waste product from excess protein in the feed. But the test will also show if you are underfeeding the cow. My prediction is that the MUN test will end up affecting the dairy more than somatic cell counts have."

While scientific research on MUN tests is limited, a Cornell University video presented to a group of veterinarians and DHIA personnel last week confirmed that the new testing technology gives a direct way to analyze the relationship between protein and energy in the ration for dairy cows. Excess protein costs extra money and puts stress on the cow. It can hurt performance and hurt the environment when excess nutrients pass through the cow and enter the air as ammonia or enter the streams and underground water supplies as nitrates.

At the same time if the cow is underfed, production suffers and the cow becomes thin. MUN testing gives dairy farmers a new to "fine tune" their nutrition programs to meet each cow's needs.

In test herds, researchers have determined that following recommendations based on MUN tests have substantial returns on investment to get the milk sample tested. In examples given in the video, reduced days open and increased milk production gave a 10 to 1 return on investment in the 100 cow herd used in the example. At Pennsylvania DHIA the program to members will be introduced initially at .15 per cow provided the entire herd is done, and the member's herd is being tested for fat,

Gov. Ridge Announces New Export Emphasis At 1996 Pennsylvania Farm Show

EVERETT NEWSWANGER
Managing Editor

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — To help reach a goal to increase exports of farm and agribusiness products produced in Pennsylvania, Gov. Tom Ridge announced a new international day as part of the 1996 Farm Show in January. Ridge made the announcement in an appearance at the monthly Ag Issues Forum usually held in Lancaster County but moved to the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture (PDA) building to accommodate Gov. Ridge and provide an opportunity for interaction with PDA representatives.

"We have decided as part of our marketing and export efforts to introduce an International Day as part of the Farm Show," Ridge said. "We want to welcome these international visitors and provide the opportunity for these international visitors to meet with appropriate agricultural leaders in the setting of excitement that is part of the farm show. I feel strongly that the PDA must be aggressive in exporting our goods.

"We need to make agriculture more profitable. You can hear all the speeches about the demise of the family farm. But if we just help farming to be more profitable, you will not need to worry about this demise.

"What do we need to do in Pennsylvania to make production agri-

ATLANTA, GA
SEPTEMBER 13, 1995

Movement of ready-to-cook whole birds varied, but was sufficient to keep the adequate to closely balanced supply of 3 pound and smaller sizes cleared satisfactorily. Larger sizes were fully adquate. Live supplies were moderate; weights were increasing and were often heavier than desired. Processing schedules were very heavy. Less than trucklot asking prices were unchanged at 61 to 72 cents. Trade sentiment was steady. In the parts complex, breasts items were burdensome. Leg items were adequate to fully adequate. Wings were adequate, occasionally barely adequate.

Wheat and soybean bids traded lower on profit taking and slow export demand. Corn bids were mostly lower, despite heavy fund buying on the board. The lack of good export sales and spillover weakness from wheat and soybeans, added pressure. Wheat 4 to 9 cents lower. Corn mostly 1 to 4 cents lower. Sorghum 2 cents higher. Soybeans 4 to 10 cents lower. Tuesday's wheat gains were erased by profit taking and the lack of new export business this week. Morocco's purchase of French wheat on Monday, continued to weigh on wheat bids. Winter wheat areas received additional rainfall overnight. Corn bids tried to extend Tuesday's gains as heavy fund buying on the board was noted. The lack of good export demand, however, kept a lid on corn bids. Moderate declines in soybean bids were due to a lack of substantial foreign demand this week and favorable Midwest weather. Profit taking and spillover weakness from wheat pits, pressure bean bids.

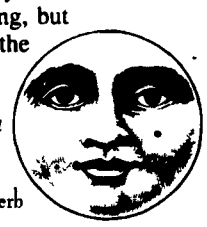
The Old Farmer's Almanac This Week With Almanac

SEPTEMBER 18-24, 1995

NEW MOON, SEPTEMBER 24.

AUTUMNAL EQUINOX

September 23rd marks the Autumnal Equinox, an Ember Day (along with the 20th and 22nd), and the eve of the new Moon. The ancient Ember Days are times of fasting and, this month, follow Holy Cross on September 14. The new Moon is a time of uncertain weather, prognosticators claim. Folklorists say hair and fingernails grow faster now, as do lawns. Weather records confirm that the days following both new and full Moon are most likely to be rainy or stormy. Some believe the full Moon is precipitous for birthing, but nurses and midwives suggest that the new Moon has a greater pull.



One meets his destiny often in the road he takes to avoid it. — French proverb

TIP OF THE WEEK

☞ When making jams and preserves, rub the bottom of the pan first with a little cooking oil to prevent sticking and burning.

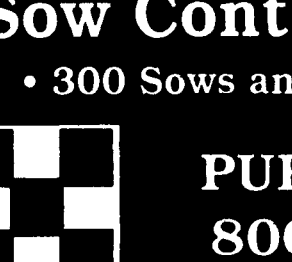
APPLE BLUEBERRY PUDDING

2 cups peeled, chopped apples
1 cup sugar
2 tablespoons water
3/4 cup butter
1 cup zwieback crumbs
2 cups blueberries
dash of cinnamon
dash of salt
1 cup heavy cream, whipped



Cook the apples and sugar with the water until soft. Melt the butter and use a bit to grease a 2-quart baking dish. Layer the dish with crumbs, butter, apples, blueberries (uncooked), cinnamon, and salt. Repeat to use all the ingredients. Bake 30 minutes at 375° F. Chill and serve with whipped cream.

Makes about 6 servings.

"As a cash-crop producer who farms more than 2,000 acres, I need reliable, dependable seed products. Sure, I'm always trying new things, but when you have a good variety like Hoffman 89, you stick with it."

"Hoffman 89 gives me good yields, and even better test weights, so it's proved to be a moneymaker in our operation. It has good standability and responds well to high managment, with either manure or nitrogen."

Hoffman 89 wins yield tests as well as producing test weights well over 58 lb/bu. In recent Lancaster County trials, it produced a 5% advantage over the mean yield, on top of an additional 5% over mean test weight. At $3.00 per bushel, that dual advantage added up to $15.30 per acre for Hoffman 89.

So take a close look at Hoffman 89. There's no better way to protect your investment in time, labor and resources. Call Hoffman Seeds at 1-800-776-7929, and let us show you how to make the most of your wheat crop this year.

Sow The Seeds Of Health

So, Sow Safety!

Once again next week, September 17-23, the nation will observe Farm Safety and Health Week. The theme this year is "Sow the Seeds of Health: Practice Safety."

Everyone associated with farming knows that safety, like seeds, needs to be sown or spread through education, and continually developed and nurtured through habit and diligence to harvest good health. The good news is that farming is becoming safer, but the bad news is that we still have a long way to go. In the 1960's, the death rate was about 60 per 100,000 workers. Now according to the National Safety Council, it's 35.

To ensure this decline continues, everyone in farming needs to take a personal and active role in identifying hazards, adopting safer work practices, and reducing risks on a regular basis.

Of course, it is not possible to eliminate all risk in our lives. We have learned to accept this. But it is sobering to realize that many fatal or serious incidents that occure on farms are associated with routine activities like driving a tractor or handling animals.

Little things can be done now. It's time to inspect tractors and farm machinery for proper functioning of emergency marker lights and properly installed SMV emblems. Never stand between a tractor and towed farm wagon when pulling the hitch-pin on a slope. Block the wagon's wheels to prevent drifting. And never ask young children to inspect grain or silage levels in bins and silos.

Every farmer knows you reap what you sow. So, sow safety as one of your farm's major crops this year!

Editor,

At a time when area dairy farmers are suffering the worst financial crisis since, maybe the depression years of the late 20s and early 30s, one would think all farm organizations and Members of Congress would be putting their "shoulder to the wheel" in an attempt to develop a realistic Dairy Act, that would be geared to correct the financial inequities being faced by dairy farmers.

Congressman Bernie Sanders (I. Vt.) has introduced a Bill, HR 2000 that is geared to correct the inadequate prices paid to dairy farmers. Locally, HR 2000 is co-sponsored by Congressman Hinchey from the Binghamton, N.Y. area and Congressman Paul McHale from the Bethlehem, Pa. area.

However, HR 2000 is certainly not the top priority of the new agriculture leaders in either the U.S. House or Senate.

To Be Alert For Silo Fires

A number of silo fires have occurred throughout southeastern Pennsylvania in recent weeks.

Fires are caused when crops are too dry when ensiled. By ensiling crops under 40 percent moisture, you are increasing your chances for a silo fire.

At higher moisture levels, the moisture in the crop will help conduct heat to the top of the silage mass and to the outside walls where it is dissipated. If the silage mass is large, as in a large silo, it is more difficult for the heat to dissipate.

If the heat cannot dissipate fast enough, temperatures may build up to a level high enough to cause spontaneous combustion. As the heat intensifies and breaks down the silage, flammable gasses are formed. When temperatures reach the ignition point in the presence of oxygen, these gases will ignite.

To Know How To Fight Silo Fires

Silo fires usually are very well developed by the time you first notice them. The first signs maybe burned-out silo doors or smoke escaping from the top of the silo.

These fires are very dangerous to fight. The techniques used to fight them are very different from other fires and are very specialized.

With this in mind, there are a few things you should not do:

- Do not climb up the chute of a burning silo. The steps may have lost their hold on the door due to damage caused by the fire. This could result in you falling down the chute.
- Do not stand on the roof of a burning silo. Flammable gases could be trapped beneath the roof. The slightest movement could ignite them, causing an explosion that would shoot you through the air like a missile.
- Do not add water to a silo fire. Water provides the oxygen which the oxygen-starved, hot silage needs to ignite. Also, as water contacts very hot carbon, such as a hot mass of silage, it forms two very flammable gasses, carbon monoxide, and hydrogen.
- Do not walk on top of silage. It could be nothing more than a thin crust covering a burnt-out dome. If you break through the crust, you could fall into a hot, burning pit and have no way out.

If you suspect a problem, do not take chances. Call your local fire department for assistance.

To Test Home Water Supplies

If your water supply is from a well or spring, you should test your water annually for coliform bacterial contamination.

Although most coliform bacteria do not cause illness, they are easy to test for and may be used to indicate the possibility of disease causing microorganisms in the water supply, such as salmonella or hepatitis.

If your water tests reveals contamination, there are three treatment methods available to you: chlorination, ultraviolet disinfection, and iodine disinfection.

Shock chlorination of the well may be sufficient to solve the problem. Continuous chlorination could be installed if needed. Ultraviolet disinfection kills the organisms by exposing them to ultraviolet light.

Iodination is an effective method of disinfecting water supplies, but there is concern about the health effect of drinking iodized water for long periods of time.

GIVE WHAT YOU HAVE

GIVE WHAT YOU HAVE
September 17, 1995

Background Scripture:
Acts 3:1 through 4:31
Devotional Reading:
Acts 3:18-26

Have you ever passed by someone in need regretting that you didn't have what the person was asking for? It can be a frustrating experience if we feel moved by the person's plight and want to help. So, we pass by giving nothing.

This could have been the situation with Peter and John when they went up to the temple at the hour of prayer. A man lame from birth was lying in the Beautiful Gate asking for alms. (That's not a term we use much today; instead we would say the man was "begging.")

There is a lot of intense concentration indicated in this passage: Peter directed his gaze at the beggar, told the beggar to "Look at us," and the beggar "fixed his attention upon them, expecting to receive something." Maybe that's why something wonderful happened here — each participant gave his full attention. They really looked at each other. This was no encounter of the fleeting glance or distracted attention.

EXPECTING SOMETHING

The beggar expected to receive something from Peter and John, but Peter plainly told him, "I have no silver and gold. . ." That could have been the end of the encounter right there, but Peter went on to say, ". . .but I give you what I have; in the name of Jesus Christ of Nazareth walk!" The man wanted money, but Peter and John didn't have any. Instead, they could have given him a sermon, a tract, their "best wishes" or a little sympathy.

At first it looked as if the beggar had chosen the poorest of prospects. It appeared as if Peter and John had nothing to give. But they gave him something infinitely better, the command to do what the man had been unable to do since birth: "Walk!" Peter and John thus remind all of us who follow Christ that we often have far more to give than we realize. We have the promise of God's grace the example of Christ's love. We can share that with anyone.

You and I may not be able to make a lame person walk, but that doesn't mean we can't minister to someone else's brokenness. That doesn't mean we have nothing to give. For more than a decade I conducted a weekly service of healing and wholeness at my parish in Mohnton, Pennsylvania. Many desperate people came and were helped by the ministry. Some of these people mistakenly regarded me as the healer. I was not. When they were helped and healed, it was Christ who was the healer. At best, I only introduced them to the healer. I could give them only what I had to give.

BY WHAT AUTHORITY?

A man who had been lame from birth was healed so that he could walk. But, instead of celebrating the man's healing, the religious authorities were upset by what Peter and john had given the lame beggar. Instead of "Praise the Lord!", they said to Peter and John, "By what power or by what name did you do this?" (4:7). All too often the churches have asked the same question. Instead of rejoicing over the wonderful deeds done in Jesus' name, they have questioned the doers' credentials.

Peter was just as incredulous as we are today: "Rulers of the people and elders, if we are being examined today concerning a good deed done to a cripple, by what means this man has been healed, be it know to you all . . . that by the name of Jesus Christ of Nazareth . . . this man is standing before you well" (4:8-10). Peter and John did not heal the cripple, but Christ did. They merely introduced him to the Healer. That's all they had — no money, no stature, no power of their own — just an introduction to Jesus Christ.

And that is something we can all give to help in healing the brokenness of others.

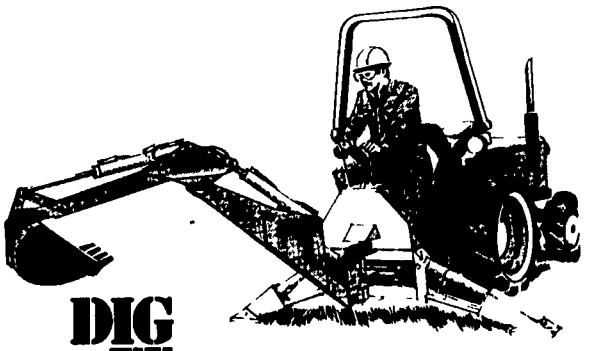
These rugged rakes will perform the tough clean-up jobs, like removing rocks, roots and other debris - plus general grooming and soil preparation. Woods rakes also handle the finish distribution and spreading of crushed rock or top-soil, prior to seeding or laying sod.



DIG IT with WOODS compact, utility backhoes!

Woods models 650 and 750 utility backhoes can outperform others their size (and larger) digging footings, irrigation ditches, drainage ditches, wiring trenches, and for landscaping... come in soon for a demonstration.

PURSUIT® IS NOW LABELED FOR ALFALFA.

(Is that the gasping of weeds we hear?)

Up until now weeds had it somewhat easy. Decreasing the forage quality of your stand with no real threat of punishment. That's about to change. Luckily, there's a new tool to help you manage your alfalfa — PURSUIT® herbicide. PURSUIT provides you with both contact and residual control of the toughest broadleaf weeds and grasses in alfalfa, leaving you with the highest forage quality possible. So don't let weeds have the upper hand this year. Use PURSUIT on alfalfa. For more information see your local AgriCenter dealer or simply call 1-800-3-PURSUIT.

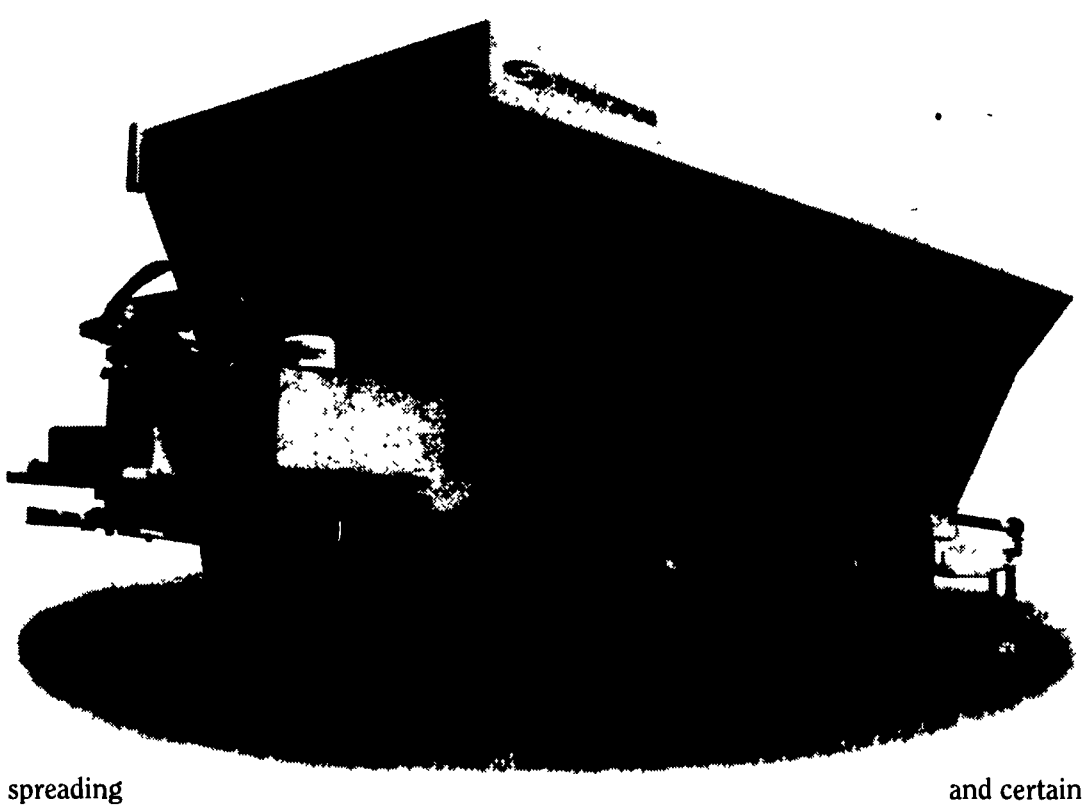
Sometimes You Need A Spreader Built Like A Tank.



When spreading stockpiled lime, for example. The Stoltzfus Wet Lime Spreader is likely the most powerful spreader of its kind on the market today. You see, we've been building them since 1945, and farmers are still using Stoltzfus Wet Lime Spreaders they've had for 20, even 30 years. Our special drag chain is 4 times stronger than stainless steel, and handles frozen and heavy stockpiled lime with ease. Plus, for spreading compost, composted sludge, poultry litter and certain fertilizers, the WLS is without equal for sheer volume spreading. We call that performance. You'll call it terrific.

We hope you compare a Stoltzfus WLS with other spreaders. It makes us look even better. Price? Sure we may be a little more. But when you end up replacing cheaper units in a few short years, what have you saved? Stoltzfus quality always pays foritself many times over.

Just how tough is a Stoltzfus WLS? Plenty tough. Call today. We'll tell you where to find the dealer nearest you, and send you free literature to inspect.

York Fair Junior Market Lamb Win Goes To Burrell

JOYCE BUPP
York Co. Correspondent

YORK (York Co.) — Mike Burrell already has plans for the check that he will receive in a few days.

"Buy more sheep," said Burrell, when asked what he planned to do with the proceeds of his market lamb, named champion of the junior show at the York Fair.

It was a first champion market lamb win ever for the 15-year-old Dover exhibitor, who raised seven market animals this year. The champ is a crossbred Suffolk and competed in the light heavyweight class.

Burrell, who works with his show lambs over an hour every day, believes that both feeding and exercise play a large role in raising a winning animal. He is a sophomore at Dover Area High School and has shown in both 4-H and open class competition for several years.

Reserve champion market lamb title of the junior show went to Thomasville 4-Her Adam Sellers. Sellers bred his Hampshire-

FLOORING

BOSS HOG WOVEN WIRE

Woven wire is generally used for hog flooring but is not limited to this use. Elevator fencing, fork truck safety cages, wire truck tailgates, etc. can also be made from the same construction. Call for your specific job needs.

* Excellent for farrowing/nursery pigs
* Does not retain bacteria
* No extra charge for custom size
* Easy cleaning
* Surface is non-porous
* Low cost flooring

Plastic Flooring

Sanitation - Constructed of solid plastic material. Some plastic floors are foamed. As these floors wear down their micro air pockets fill with bacteria which make the floor difficult, if not impossible to disinfect. This flooring features a triangle underside design which diminishes the need for high pressure washing from below to completely clean, as the floor can be cleaned sufficiently from above.

Outstanding Traction - Unique "High-low" finger design provides traction for pigs of all sizes, while enhancing safety and comfort.

"The 21st Century Dairy Policy Transition and Reform Act" will be the Bill considered by the House Dairy Committee at this time.

Some of the sections of the Bill make sense. For instance, provisions like bringing California in line with the rest of the country, eliminating the C.C.C. assessment, establishing a national make allowance on manufactured products, making milk processors pay for the full value of milk when they substitute low priced powdered milk in their production of cheese, placing a 15¢ cwt fee on dairy imports for advertising purposes, component pricing and some others.

However, the Gunderson Bill forgets one main thing for the majority of dairy farmers, and that is the most important item—price. Gunderson's Bill contains a new pricing formula called, "End Pricing Formula." This is the formula that most milk processors and many operating dairy cooperators supported in a national hearing in Alexandria, Virginia three years ago.

They support the formula mainly because the processors know they won't have to pay any more for milk than what they know for sure they can sell the product for (and they help establish the value of the end product).

Presently, milk prices are established somewhat, but not entirely by this method.

Our Concerns

If Gunderson's Bill goes through as proposed some of the pitfalls we see are:

1. Class I differentials will be lowered in our area. The Eastern Region will be $2.26 cwt. Currently order #2 differential is $2.42, order #4 is $3.03 and order #1 is $2.52. This will reduce the blend price.

2. Order #2 has Farm Point Pricing. All other orders have plant pricing. Under the new Eastern Region, in my opinion, there isn't any possible way we can preserve farm point pricing. If farm point pricing is lost then order #2 producers could wind up paying the entire hauling cost, which could be at least twice their present cost.

3. Class IV price. The way the Class IV price is set up is a sure thing the blend will be reduced.

4. Removing butter and powder from the support program could reduce the blend. Some people are predicting this loss will be offset by eliminating the C.C.C. assessment.

Conclusion

If the Sanders Bill is not going to be considered, if the Gunderson Bill goes through with the new pricing formula based on end product pricing, and if the Class I differentials are lowered then dairy farmers have only one way to obtain real price improvement. You must call several U.S. Congressmen and Senators and demand (not ask) that the Class I price in all federal markets be raised by $3.00 cwt. We are willing to pool the $3.00 nationally. We have proposed this to people in Washington. Other organizations are doing the same, but it will not happen unless dairy farmers spend the next 5 days making calls and more calls.

Again, call and demand there be a $3.00 cwt increase placed on the Class I price. No one will do it for you. Remember as you know very well your price is below the 1980 price.

Farmers Risk Silo Fires From Dry Corn Plants

tural engineering Dennis Murphy. "If there's not enough moisture to dissipate that heat, spontaneous combustion can result."

"The corn plants we've sampled are about five percentage units drier than we'd expect at this stage of maturity," said Greg Roth, associate professor of agronomy. "If you usually estimate corn moisture by kernel development, the corn will be drier than you think."

Corn with a moisture content below 50 to 55 percent is especially likely to cause silo fires. "Such a crop probably should not be considered for silage," Roth said. "Adding water to corn silage to make it less dry is helpful, but it often is difficult to add as much as is necessary."

In two recent cases, fires began after farmers put corn silage on top of haylage. "When you mix two different materials in a silo, it's hard to get uniform packing," said Murphy. "That creates air pockets where the haylage and corn silage meet, which can make spontaneous combustion more likely."

Silo fires usually start in the top 10 feet of ensiled material. "If you suspect for any reason that the material in your silo is getting too hot, check it a couple of times each day," Murphy warns. "Look for small puffs of smoke and smell for burning odors."

To help prevent silo fires, Murphy offers the following advice:

- Chop silage with a moisture content of 50 to 65 percent. Test the moisture of the material being ensiled.
- Chop silage fine — ideally to about a quarter-inch, but not over half an inch to an inch. If the chopped forage is over an inch and a half in length, sharpen the knives in your chopper and reset the shear bar clearance.
- Mow and condition only what can be put up in a single day.
- Use a good center fill or properly adjusted mechanical silage distributor and follow manufacturer's directions.
- To assure good packing, fill the silo rapidly at a rate of at least two feet per hour.

More information about preventing and putting out silo fires is available in "Extinguishing Silo Fires," NRAES-18, available for review at Penn State Cooperative Extension county offices or for $4 from the Publications Distribution Center, The Pennsylvania State University, 112 Agricultural Administration Building, University Park, PA 16802-2602.

Course To Teach Fire, Rescue Personnel

recover victims of farm accidents.

The course included video presentations, coursework, presentations, tests, and other methods of showing how accidents occur and what to do about them.

Now, the Irishtown Fire Company and the county farm bureau are working to develop three-day courses to overview what Feeser learned at the FARMEDIC course in Alfred, N.Y.

The course will run Tuesday, Sept. 19 and Thursday, Sept. 21 from 7:30 p.m.-10 p.m. at the Irishtown Fire Hall. A special hands-on "equipment" day is scheduled for next Saturday, Sept. 23, at the fire hall.

The course is open to fire deparment, EMS, and rescue personnel in the county. Cost of the course is $65 per person.

Some of the equipment that will be used to train personnel at the course include a one-row corn picker; a 250-gallon, 12-row spray rig, and a 1,000-gallon five-person Darley engine. The company is working to secure additional equipment for later instruction.

Also, the Adams County Firefighting Association is planning two additional courses to run Oct. 9, 11, and 14, and Nov. 20, 22, and 25.

At the FARMEDIC course in New York, instruction included the following:

• Power takeoff (PTO) shaft dangers. In one demonstration, a dummy was placed next to the yoke of a PTO shaft running at very low idle. It was used to show how fast an operator can be pulled into the PTO shaft by a piece of baler twine. It took only a few seconds, at very low idle, but it convinced the students about the real and present danger.

• Grain auger dangers. A grain auger, encased in clear PVC, shows what happens when a glove (in this case, containing raw meat and sewn shut) is caught in the auger, operated by a simple drill. The conditions of the glove, to represent a human hand, were shown. "In a way it's kind of sick," said Feeser, "but the bad part is, if you ever go into a farm accident where somebody's caught up into a grain elevator of this sort, it's not a pretty sight." A video of a boy who lost his arms to an auger accident was shown.

At the FARMEDIC course, a dummy is wrapped around the PTO in a manner of seconds.

• Tractor rollover dangers. A simple demonstration using a remote controlled tractor at 1/32 scale showed the effects of having no rollover protective structure (ROPS) installed, and how easily a tractor can tip over.

• Flail equipment demonstration dangers. A dummy resembling a teenager was dressed to show how quickly, even at very low idle, someone can be pulled in and ground to bits. The demonstrations had a large impact on the students.

• Silo and related fire dangers. A video showed rescue of personnel who didn't properly treat a silo fire.

• Barn fires. One video showed a team that didn't know quite what

(Turn to Page A26)

Some of the equipment that will be used to train personnel at the course include this a one-row corn picker.

Latest Statistics: Farming Is Hazardous

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Last year, 35 people in Pennsylvania lost their lives in accidents related to farming, according to the latest farm safety and health statistics compiled by Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences.

Dr. Dennis Murphy, professor of agricultural engineering, analyzed death reports and other sources of information to develop a statistical picture of fatal farm accidents in Pennsylvania last year.

The summary of 1994 shows an overall decline from 1993, but the number of fatal incidents remains high.

"Pennsylvania farm fatalities dropped from 48 in 1993 to 35 in 1994," Murphy said. "Numerically, that may seem like a significant drop, but it's still tragic when you consider that 35 people died from incidents that were, for the most part, preventable."

A comparison with past years puts it in perspective. In 1992, 47 Pennsylvanias died in farm-related accidents. In 1991, 32 people died, and in 1990, 50 people died. The numbers don't vary by much.

"Each year that we see a decline in the number of farm deaths, we hope it is an indication of a long-term trend — not just a blip in the statistics," Murphy said. "We have seen fatalities drop before, only to see the number rebound in later years."

Tractors played a role in 16 fatal accidents in 1994. Eleven people were killed in tractor overturns. "Many such deaths can be prevented by a rollover protective structure, or ROPS, on a tractor," Murphy said.

Another tractor-related incident involved an extra rider on a tractor, while three tractor operators were run over on the ground. One operator died when he was thrown from the tractor.

Accidents involving machinery declined by nearly half, but still accounted for seven deaths. Machinery involved in the deaths included a corn chopper, a wagon, a baler, a manure spreader, a pay loader, backhoe and a bulldozer.

There was one animal-related death in 1994, involving a bull. Four people died when they fell from heights. One person was struck by an object. Two were overcome by gas. One was killed by a truck and one drowned in a farm pond.

The greatest number of deaths occurred in August, with September and May close behind.

Once again in 1994, farm fatalities took their toll without regard to age. Four children under age 15 were killed on farms, while people over age 65 accounted for 11 deaths. People between the ages of 15 and 65 accounted for 20 deaths.

In all, 659 farm fatalities have occurred in Pennsylvania since 1980.

Gov. Ridge Announces New Export Emphasis

culture and the value added process of agribusiness successful?" Ridge asked.

In his introduction of Gov. Ridge, State Ag Secretary Charles Brosius likened the government to a business and called it Pennsylvania's Citizens Service Company. "We (in government) have no reason to exist except to provide for citizen services, for them collectively what they cannot do for themselves individually," Brosius said. "PDA touches the lives of every person in the state. Three-fourth of the PDA employees have some responsibility for regulation. But we do it in a 'farmer friendly' way. Excessive regulation is another form of taxation because the cost of compliance bleeds profits away from your business. The task of our department is to educate, support, and raise the farm income of the 51,000 farms in Pennsylvania. This in turn will inprove the economy of the rural community."

Because of the location and the governor's visit, the meeting expanded into a state-wide forum with questions from the floor related to education, reassesment, exports, and farmland preservation.

Chris Herr, deputy secretary, was the meeting manager and is a regular member of the forum. Others on the program included Walt Peechatka, deputy secretary; Russell Redding, deputy secretary; LeRoy Corbin, acting director of food safety; and Ana Maria DiStefano, director of market development. Mike Brubaker, chair, opened the meeting.

Lori Stump, at Pennsylvania DHIA, shows the new FOSS 4,000 MUN milk testing equipment that will go on line October 1 to give members the most up-to-date tool for nutrition and reproduction management their herds.

protein, and SCC. Several large herds are already waiting to begin the test and only the first 1000 herds will be accepted into this program.

Another supporting factor in the program is that the cheese yield in milk increases if the cow is properly fed. Thus herds on the MUN test provide a win/win situation. The farmer pays for only the feed the cow needs and the manufacturer gets a product with increased cheese yields.

The FOSS 4000 milk testing machine to do the MUN testing along with the regular tests of butterfat, protein, and SCC has already been installed. Slusser says the Pennsylvania DHIA program will provide an efficient method for dairy farmers to monitor their herds and take advantage of this new management tool.

After Oct. 1, members can begin testing for MUN by informing their technicians that they want tested. No additional samples need to be taken. Members will receive individual cow results on their DHIA monthly report plus a MUN herd summary report. The MUN report will give information by days in milk, by group, and by lactation number.

"The new milk analysis technology to measure the urea content of milk opens up an exciting opportunity to improve the management of dairy cattle rations and improve the profitability in milk production," Slusser said. "In addition, the best possible milk protein concentrations of cheese yields for dairy product manufacturing is maintained. This provides a definite benefit to both the farmer and the cheese manufacturer."

Junior Exhibitors Take York Fair Open Market Lamb Honors

JOYCE BUPP
York Co. Correspondent

YORK (York Co.) — Junior exhibitors' entries have traditionally competed well in the York Fair's open class market lamb show. This year proved to be a continuation of that trend of the last several years.

Champion title of the competitive open class market lamb show went to 17-year-old 4-Her Julie Kern, York. The champion is a 118-pound homebred Suffolk and topped its light heavyweight class earlier in the show.

"It's really great that it was a homebred," said Julie about her first time to win the York Fair's open class championship. The purple-ribbon lamb was one of six that the York junior shepherd raised for showring competition this season.

Reserve champion honors were won by Adam Sellers, Thomasville, with a crossbred entry that he plans to exhibit in January as his Farm Show lamb. At 16, Adam is a veteran shepherd who notes that a lamb when it is just a few weeks old already displays the characteristics that help make it a winner in the showring.

Genetics, along with regular working with the lambs, is what Adam attributes in large part ot showing a champion animal. Adam also took reserve honors in the junior show, but with a different lamb.

Market lamb pairs honors went to Julie Kern, York who exhibited her well-matched, homebred Suffolks to the champion title. Julie sums up her winning formula for market lambs as "just plenty of TLC — tender loving care."

Other weight division champions in the open market lamb show included Lindsay Jones, lightweight, Lisa Moyer, light mediumweight, Matt Sellers, mediumweight, and Shanna Daugherty, heavyweight.

Course To Teach Fire, Rescue Personnel

they were doing opening the main doors to a fire. An explosion throws the fire team, injuring several, and knocks the camera out of the photographer's hands.

• Silo gas dangers. This showed the students how deadly silo gas exposure can be and what signs to look for.

Years ago, the Irishtown Fire Company responded to a tractor rollover accident in which several children were involved, with one fatality.

But farm accidents don't always involve fatalities. In many cases, accidents happen that simply aren't reported.

Farmers "don't really see the need to do it," said Jean. "They can get themselves out, so there's no need to tell anybody, I guess."

"The only time you hear of a farm accident is when it's a fatality or almost a fatality," said Larry.

What concerns the Feesers and other rescue personnel is that many times the farmer is alone, in the back 40, often at night, working, isolated from those that could help them in danger. So it is important that farmers work together, keep in touch, and beware and ready to help each other if an accident occurs, according to the Feesers.

National Farm Safety and Health Week runs from Sept. 17-23, the same week as the Irishtown course. According to the National Safety Council, agriculture is one of the most dangerous industries in the United States, with a death rate of 26 per 100,000 worker population in 1994. It has a work-related death rate almost five times the average of all industries combined.

In Pennsylvania, last year, 35 people lost their lives in accidents related to farming, according to statistics complied by Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences.

Tractors played a role in 16 fatal accidents in the state in 1994. Eleven were killed in tractor overturns, which could have been prevented by a ROPS.

Dr. Dennis Murphy, professor of ag engineering, believes that it's "tragic when you consider that 35 people died from incidents that were, for the most part, preventable."

This year's theme for National Farm Safety and Health Week is "Sowing the Seeds of Health: Practice Safety." Feeser, who raises hogs, believes that the $65 course will benefit those involved in farm accidents by making farmers and rescue people more aware of what is involved.

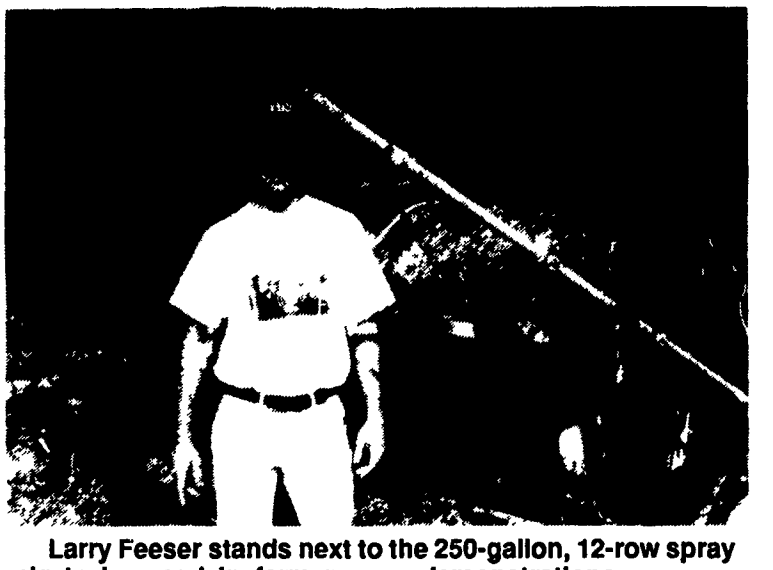
The entirely volunteer Irishtown Fire Department has 225 members, of which 45-50 are active in the department. About 35-40 are farmers.

Feeser believes that the feedback from the experience could benefit farmers and rescue people alike. After two years, recertification involves about 10-12 hours of coursework.

"I could talk to 200 farmers and all 200 farmers could give me a farm-related accident," said Feeser. "Fire fighters are no different. They've seen things, they have done things in the past, and they can insert at any time in a situation to handle it."

For more information about the course, call Feeser at (717) 624-9452.

The Irishtown Fire Company and the county farm bureau are working to develop three-day courses to overview what Larry Feeser covered at the FARMEDIC course in New York. The course will run Tuesday, Sept. 19 and Thursday, Sept. 21 from 7:30 p.m.-10 p.m. at the Irishtown Fire Hall. A special hands-on "equipment" day is scheduled for next Saturday, Sept. 23, at the fire hall.



Larry Feeser stands next to the 250-gallon, 12-row spray rig to be used in farm rescue demonstrations.

Kelly Myers Wins York Fair Junior Market Steer

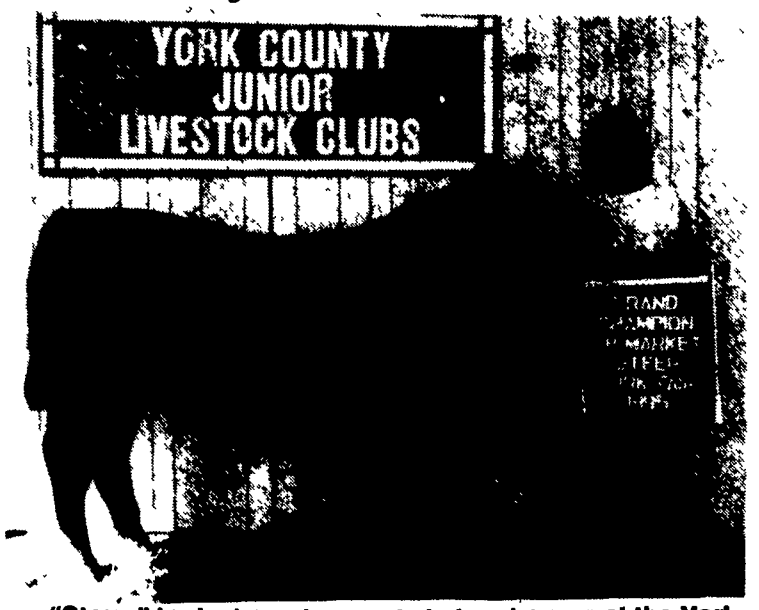
JOYCE BUPP
York Co. Correspondent

YORK (York Co.) — A tired but exuberant Kelly Myers burst into a broad smile as judge Erskin Cash tapped her Angus steer for champion of the junior market beef show at the York Fair.

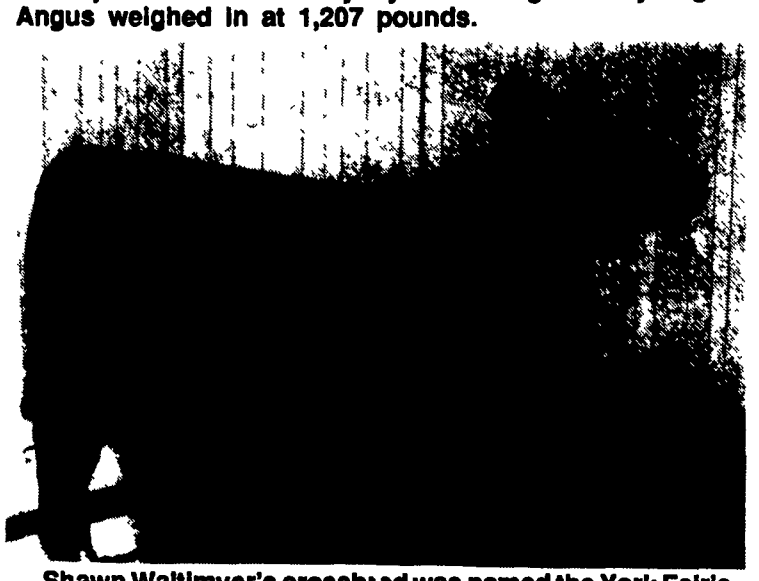
The market steer selection wrapped up the fair's junior beef show.

"Storm" is the first champion market steer for the 18-year-old exhibitor and showring veteran of both youth and open class competitions. The Angus purebred, purchased from the G and T Farm of Greg and Tod Grove, earned his name from his sometimes high-strung personality. Storm weighed in for the show at 1,207 pounds and won the light heavyweight class.

Kelly, a June graduate of Spring Grove High School and the county's 1994 dairy princess, is working and plans to continue her education next year.



"Storm" took champion market steer honors at the York Fair's junior show for Kelly Myers. The light heavyweight Angus weighed in at 1,207 pounds.



Shawn Waltimyer's crossbred was named the York Fair's junior show reserve champion market steer.

Reserve champion market steer honors went to another beef show veteran, 18-year-old Shawn Waltimyer, Airville. Shawn's heavyweight winner topped the show entries on the scales at 1,297 pounds. The runner-up steer is a Chianina-Maine-Angus crossbred.

Shawn, a graduate of Red Lion High School, is a freshman at Penn State York campus, majoring in animal science. He hopes to make a career working in the beef industry.

Other division champions in the junior market steer show were Jodi Dutrey, Dallastown, lightweight, and Raymond Stough, Seven Valleys, medium weight.

A second Chianina-Maine-Angus crossbred steer in his showstring took champion honors for Shawn Waltimyer, Airville, in the prospect steer class. Reserve champion in the prospect steer show was Elizabeth Bishard, York.

In the fitting competition, Tammi Grubb was named champion over reserve winner Shawn Waltimyer. Other age division winners were Cassandra Hake, junior division, and Marie Yost, rookie. A special beef fitting contest named three age group winners — Suzanne Bishard in the senior division, Tammi Grubb, junior, and Jennifer Flinchbaugh, novice.

Jodi Dutrey, Dallastown, was selected champion fitter, with Jay Rishel, Seven Valleys, named the reserve champion fitter. Junior division winner was Cassandra Hake and rookie winner was Marie Yost.

Four champions were named in the junior beef breeding show. Champion and best bred and owned Angus was the heifer exhibited by Suzanne Bishard, York. Wade Myers, Dallastown, took Charolais honors and best bred and owned with his junior yearling. Hereford champion and best bred and owned entry was exhibited by Amanda Daugherty, York. Champion Simmental was exhibited by Raymond Stough, Seven Valleys, while the best bred and owned Simmental title went to Travis Reid, Dallastown.

Maryland Dairy Judging Teams To Compete

JOANNE E. MORVAY
Maryland Correspondent

TIMONIUM, Md.—Maryland has chosen three dairy judging teams to represent the state at upcoming competitions in Harrisburg, Pa.; Louisville, Ky.; and Madison, Wis.

The state's collegiate team will attend all three competitions. Members are Marie Speak of Carroll County, Mark Iager of Howard County, Sean Johnson of Howard County, and Bob Fogle of Frederick County.

The 4-H team competing at Harrisburg and Madison is Jessica Fritz of Carroll County, Darren Remsburg of Frederick County, Mark Schnelby of Washington County, and Chris Seymour of Howard County.

The 4-H team going to Louisville, Ky. in November consists of Kristin Myers of Carroll County, Amy Iager of Howard County, Erin Goulet of Montgomery County, and Emily Birch of Harford County.

Dr. Lee Majeski, extension dairy specialist and associate professor at the University of Maryland, is the driving force behind the state's program.

Majeski said this year's competition was the largest ever. Approximately 135 youngsters participated.

Majeski personally worked with 12 Maryland 4-H'ers in the team competition. They judged 30 classes of animals over two days.

The Louisville team members will be able to come back next year and try out for the Madison team, he said.

Majeski was pleased with the interest he saw in dairy judging.

"We had a lot of juniors and intermediate aged participants," he said.

He is also pleased with the talent on this year's teams.

"I think we'll be real competitive," Majeski said.

This is only the third time in the past decade that Maryland has had a collegiate dairy judging team. Majeski worked with teams in 1987 and 1993. Both of those teams finished in the top ten nationally with a number of high individual winners, he recalled.

Marie Speak and Mark Iager, members of this year's collegiate team, competed on the award-winning Maryland 4-H Dairy Judging Team that went to Europe in 1992.

Majeski is being assisted this year by graduate student Katharine Knowlton and coach Jeff Semler, a 4-H agent in Harford County.

The team receives financial support from the Dody Remsburg Memorial fund, Sire Power, and the 4-H Foundation, among others.

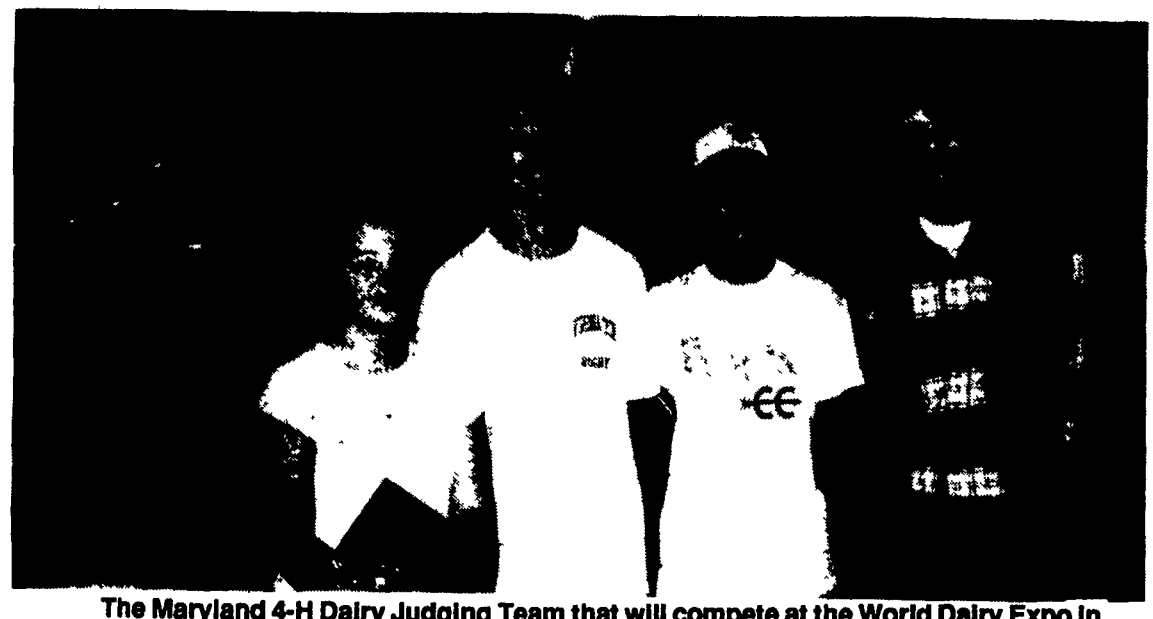
Majeski said the program produces much more than students who can tell a good cow from a lesser one.

"I use dairy judging to develop participants' communication skills and leadership," Majeski explained.

He said many of the current participants come from families that have traditionally participated in dairy judging.

"There's a lot of enthusiasm and a lot of support from the community for dairy judging," Majeski said.

The Maryland teams will compete at the Harrisburg All American later this month, the Madison World Dairy Expo on Oct. 3, and the Louisville, Ky. All American on Nov. 5.



The Maryland 4-H Dairy Judging Team that will compete at the World Dairy Expo in Madison, Wis., left to right, Dr. Lee Majeski with the University of Maryland, Jessica Fritz of Carroll County, Darren Remsburg of Frederick County, Mark Schnebly of Washington County, and Chris Seymour of Howard County.

The team going to Louisville, Ky., left to right, Dr. Lee Majeski of the University of Maryland, Emily Birch of Harford County, Erin Goulet of Montgomery County, Amy Iager of Howard County, and Kristin Myers of Carroll County.

Composting Classes Set

COLLEGEVILLE (Montgomery Co.) — The biology of composting, worm composting, wildflower meadows, and other alternatives to lawns, and compost bin construction are just some of the topics to be covered in the upcoming master composter training at the new Montgomery Township building.

If these topics float your boat, you may want to register and become a Montgomery County Master Composter. Classes are scheduled for Thursday, Sept. 21, Sept. 28, and Oct. 5 from 6:45 p.m. to 8:45 p.m. and for the building of a new compost education park on Saturday, Oct. 14 from 1 p.m. to 4:30 p.m. Attendance is required at all four sessions.

Classes are free and are being provided by the Recycling Education Program of Penn State Cooperative Extension in Montgomery County. In return for the training, Master Composters agree to 20 hours of volunteer time promoting backyard composting. Master Composters in the past have staffed the educational booth at community events, taught classes on backyard composting, written articles for newsletters, maintained the compost education parks, and designed new displays including a scale model of a compost park.

Registration is limited and the deadline is Monday, Sept. 11. Please call or write the Recycling Education Program, Montgomery County Cooperative Extension, 1015 Bridge Road, Suite H, Collegeville, PA 19426-1179, (610) 454-1245.

Holloways Show Maryland Swine Champion

KAREN BUTLER
Maryland Correspondent

TIMONIUM, Md. — A Duroc gilt bred and owned by David and Bettie Holloway, Glen Rock, Pa., took supreme champion female swine honors here at the Maryland State Fair.

This is the fifth time a Holloway female has placed first in the open class, all-breed show at the fair.

The 290-pound Jim Dandy daughter, born March 10, 1995, had a -1.7 epd for growth and a -.01 epd on backfat. She was 140 days to 230 pounds, at which time she had a .69 inch backfat. On the dam side the pig is an Ice Pick daughter. Her maternal index was 103.3; her terminal index was 107.5. This gilt's dam was a littermate to last year's grand champion boar at the Maryland State Fair.

"This is a powerful set of females, I think everyone will agree. Whether you're from Oklahoma or Maryland, they are very competitive," said Judge Coy Farmer of Prague, Okla., in selecting this year's supreme champion from the top females of each of the six breeds represented.

The Holloways have been breeding and exhibiting durocs for a number of years. They show at both the regional and National levels and have taken home honors for the champion boar from Timonium six years in a row.

The Ken Winebark family of Myerstown, Pa. took the supreme champion individual market barrow award with their homebred and raised hampshire barrow. The Winebarks are no strangers to success at Timonium with this line of pigs — the mother of this pig was a class winner at the Maryland State Fair the first year the family showed here.

"It's basically for the kids," Ken Winebark said, speaking of the family's three-sow enterprise. Ken and his wife Janet have a 5½ acre

JOANNE E. MORVAY
Maryland Correspondent

TIMONIUM, Md. — A 2-year-old that was the Brown Swiss reserve All-American Intermediate Yearling in 1994 won this year's Brown Swiss Futurity.

The second annual Mid-Atlantic Futurity was held at the Maryland State Fair in Timonium. Ten animals were exhibited.

The winning entry was Ken Ir Emory Amery, exhibited by Jeremy McDonald of Shen-Val Farm in Stephen City, Va.

McDonald, 19, has been showing since he was four years old. Time in the ring has given him an idea of what the judges look for and how a cow will fare.

"She's been said to be one of the best 2-year-olds, so I thought she had a chance," McDonald said after Amery's big win. She also won top overall junior at the Futurity.

Amery was named junior champion at the Eastern National and Southeasteren National shows last year. She was sired by Victory Acres Jubiliation Emory. Her dam is Ken Ir Jade Layne.

"She's real easy to work with, which makes a difference," McDonald said. "When they're tame and gentle, you can do anything with them."

McDonald and his family milk 110 head at Shen-Val — 30 Brown Swiss, 10 Jerseys, and the rest Holsteins. His parents, Gary and Sharon, were not on hand for Jeremy's Futurity win, but well wishers knew the couple would be thrilled to hear the good news when McDonald returned home.

McDonald — the eighth generation of his family to farm — brought a number of wins home from the Maryland Fair.

He showed six animals with the following results: reserve champion and first in her class: 100,000 lb. cow; second place: 4-year-old; third place: aged cow, senior calf and dry cow.

The Futurity was judged by Wayne Sliker of St. Paris, Ohio. His Top Acres Brown Swiss farm has produced seven national winners, 75 All Americans and 71 reserve all Americans.

Other Futurity winners were:

• Best bred and owned - Sand Rock Quest, exhibited by George Bassler of Sand Rock Farm in Emmitsburg, Md.

• Genetic Merit - Niermans Emory Natalie exhibited by Shanna L. Smith of Dublin Hills Farm in Woodsboro, Md. Natalie was also the top Maryland junior winner for Shanna.

The second place Futurity winner was Bassler's Sand Rock Quest.

Jeremy McDonald is pictured with Ken Ir Emory Amery, winner of the 1995 Mid-Atlantic Brown Swiss Futurity, Judge Wayne Sliker, and Eastern Shore Dairy Princess Julie Edwards.

Third place winner was Hoodstead Blend Natasha, exhibited by K. Scott and Judy Hood of Hoodstead Farms in Middletown.

Brand-New Denver Hog Shows Unveils Brand-New Champion

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

DENVER (Lancaster Co.) — The headline should read "Schoeneck Family Makes History".

Because the Hoover family did just that.

Actually, it was Josh Hoover who captured the first-ever Denver Fair Swine Show trophy for his grand champion hog on Tuesday evening.

Josh, 9, son of Marty and Lois Hoover, was accompanied by some help, too, in the early going for the first-ever swine show. His sisters Jenny, 14, Renee, 12, and Holly, 10 also exhibited hogs at the event. Holly captured lightweight champion and Renee captured medium lightweight champion at the show.

This was the first year of showing hogs for the Hoover family.

Josh, in the third grade at Schoeneck Elementary School, showed his 240-pound Duroc/Hampshire crossbred gilt from the medium heavyweight class to champion. The hog, according to his mother, Lois Hoover, was obtained at a White Oak Sale.

The Hoovers exhibited at the county roundup show and will show hogs at the Ephrata Fair.

Kurtis Good, show judge from Denver, said that what stood out about the crossbred was its "leanness and thickness of muscling" and that it would "hang up a nice carcass" on the rail.

The reserve was shown by Gerald Boyd, 17, son of Kerry and Deb Boyd, Ephrata. The Ephrata High School junior showed "Sally," a 262-pound Hampshire cross from the heavyweight class.

The Boyds will be showing at Ephrata Fair and the Keystone International Livestock Expo.

In all, there was a total of 25 hogs and 14 exhibitors at the show.

At one time in the show, 57 audience members were attentive as 10 exhibitors showed in the largest class, the heavyweight.

Following is a list of show placings.

At Denver Fair 137 Sheep Strut Their Stuff

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

DENVER (Lancaster Co.) — Ryan Donough is no newcomer to grand champion wins in sheep competition, but Thursday night was the first time he showed at the Denver Fair.

The 11-year-old son of Ed and LaRue Donough captured the market lamb trophy with his homebred Suffolk cross. The champion market lamb, named Eclipse, was a heavyweight he nurtured on his parents' farm in Manheim.

Ryan had stiff competition from Joleen Herbert, who showed the reserve market lamb, a Suffolk. With Ryan showing champions in both mediumweight and heavyweight classes and Joleen the reserve in both classes, the two faced a final showdown against Chrissy Bollinger's lightweight champion and her brother-in-law Keith Bollinger's reserve lightweight.

Judge David Lytle, a Hampshire breeder from New London, selected the heavyweights for the championship. Joleen has been showing for three years, but it was her first breakthrough into the champion circle.

Her heavyweight named Scottie came from Lloyd Reiff of Strasburg.

"I liked Scottie best right from the start, so I gave him extra attention," Joleen, a Terre Hill resident, said.

That extra attention sometimes came at great sacrifice for Joleen who is a freshman at Penn State's Berks County Campus.

"I credit Sam Reiff, the father of one of my friends, for everything. It was him that kept encouraging me. Whenever I didn't feel like exercising the sheep, he'd tell me, 'But you want them to look good in the showring, don't you?'"

So Joleen ran her three sheep through hurdles for 15 to 20 minutes daily.

In breeding sheep competition, both grand champion ewe and ram over all breeds were Corriedales. But the two champion Corriedales are not owned by the same person. Nicole Knepp of Berks County showed the grand champion ram. Another Berks Countian, Kelly Glaser, took the grand champion ewe trophy.

Nicole and Kelly not only took championships in sheep breeding competition but also in showmanship.

Of Nicole's and Kelly's expertise in showmanship, judge Lytle said, "These two individuals stuck out from the beginning. They are smooth, discreet in bracing, and keep an eye on the judge, and keep their sheep looking the best at all times."

Kelly topped Nicole this time in the show ring, but the two friends say they often show at the same competitions and alternately take championships for their Corriedales and in showmanship.

Kelly, a 14-year-old from Limekiln, keeps her sheep at her grandmother Ruth Hartman's home. Her grand champion overall breeds, a yearling ewe named Diane, also won at Allentown and Kimberton Fairs and the grand champion fleece award in Missouri.

Nicole, who is the Berks County Lamb and Wool Queen, is the daughter of Dawn and Theodore Knepp of Mohnton. Her homebred spring ram champion was also named grand champion of the breed at Kutztown and Allentown fairs.

Reserve champion ram and ewe over all breeds were shown by a brother and sister duo, Jay and Jennifer Zimmerman of Akron. The two showed Southdowns. It was the first time that Jay showed the ram, which had been purchased from Steve Kwiset of Clarksburg. Jennifer showed the same ewe that was supreme champion over all sheep at the Elizabethtown Fair. The Southdown ewe is noted for its length of body and correctness. The two are the children of Jay and Joanne.

Other breed champions included those shown by Keith Bollinger of Ephrata who took both champion and reserve titles in the Cheviot division with a spring lamb and a yearling.

In the Dorset division, Jessica Stoltzfus of Elizabethtowntown showed a fall lamb for the champion ewe, a ram lamb for a champion ram, and a yearling for the reserve champion ewe. Radell Peters of Middletown showed the reserve champion ram Dorset.

Oxford lamb honors were all collected by Leon Hunter of Berks County.

In the Romney breed, first-year exhibitor Alexandra Lauffer of Narvon showed the champion and reserve champion ewe and the reserve champion ram. The champion ram was shown by Andy Brennen.

A pair of brothers from Mohnton collected all ribbons in the Shropshire breed. Travis Redmond showed the champion ram and his brother Derek, showed the champion and reserve champion ewe.

In the Suffolk breed, Keith Bollinger showed the champion ewe and his brother Jeff, the reserve champion ewe.

farmette in Myerstown. All feed is purchased, and Winebark does the AI himself. The semen for the winning barrow came from Birchwood Genetics in Ohio. The Winebarks have two children, Brandon and Janine.

Supreme champion pair of market barrows was awarded to Jim Martin of Hampstead, Md. for his pair of Chesters. Martin and his wife Vonnie also took top honors for their individual Chester barrow and their Yorkshire boar.

The Martins raise approximately 400 pigs on their 157-acre purebred feeder pig operation. They have Chester Whites, Yorkshires, Durocs, and Berkshires.

"I encourage some of the breeders here to show nationally," said Coy Farmer, who himself judges all around the country. "There's hogs here in Maryland and Pennsylvania that could compete on the national level. These guys just need to get a little more active. The quality is here." This was Farmer's second year judging at Maryland. He said that although the number of entries was down compared to last year, he thought the quality was better this year.

This year Rhythm Farm of Dayton, Md. established the William A. Curry Award to be given to the supreme champion female winner each year. The award will be presented in remembrance of William A. Curry, a respected animal science specialist with the University of Maryland Cooperative Extension Service for 24 years who passed away last year. Mary Anne Poole, Curry's daughter, presented the award.

Donald Morrison, superintendent of the swine show, announced his retirement after 30 years at the state fair. His presence during the

Brethren Disaster Relief Auction Puts Faith Into Action

Concern For Others Generates Giving, Buying, Selling

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

MANHEIM (Lancaster Co.) — What does a cookbook, a newly-built house, and a heifer have in common?

The result of that strange combination will be discovered by all who attend the Brethren Disaster Relief Auction at the Lebanon Area Fairgrounds on Friday, Sept. 22 and Saturday, Sept. 23.

The reason for combining a cookbook, a house, and a heifer had its beginnings more than 19 years ago.

That was when Jay Witman, an auctioneer, the late Jacob H. Ruhl and James Gibbel, insurance brokers, decided to hold an auction with all proceeds going to help people who were victims of disaster.

'It brought tears to my eyes to see how someone with so little was willing to sacrifice.'

to her house one day. She was very poor and had only the bare necessities to live. She felt she had no talent to make money, but for one year, whenever she prayed for the upcoming relief auction, she laid aside fifty cents or whatever change she had. At the end of the year, she handed me $500. It brought tears to my eyes to see how someone with so little was willing to sacrifice."

This year, the committee wanted to come up with some new ideas to generate money for relief. They came up with three. One was to build a house using mostly volunteer labor and supplies. Hundreds of people and area businesses worked together to complete the house that sold for $240,000 recently. After paying for the building lot and other expenses, they hoped to raise $10,000, which they did. But the contagious enthusiasm shared by so many people concerned with helping others spread. Since then, the disaster relief auction has been held annually and raised more than $3 million for victims of disaster.

Witman suffers from Crohn's Disease, an incurable intestinal illnesses in which the body destroys the intestines and the body gathers little nutrition from the food eaten.

The auction is sponsored by the Atlantic Northeast and Southern Pennsylvania districts of the Church of the Brethren (COB). The districts encompass 119 congregations with more than 24,000 members.

In addition to donations for auctioned items, participants offered unique services for raising funds for the needy. Some of these include Share-A-Meal, which is selling tickets for meals served in their homes, and Gro-Money in which local businessmen donate "seed money" for people to use with their talents to earn money that they contribute to the relief fund.

"Some of the biggest inspiration comes from seeing how people give what they can," said Witman. "A widow lady asked me to come the project resulted in a net profit of $138,000. This amount will be tallied in with the money garned from the auction.

The second idea resulted in a just-off-the-press printing of the first Brethren Disaster Relief Cookbook. The spiral-bound, hardcover cookbooks with 1,014 recipes from church members will be sold at the Share-A-Meal booth during the auction.

The third idea is a livestock auction. From the beginning, a heifer auction was included, but this will be the first year for selling pigs, sheep, goats, ducks, and other livestock.

"I don't know what we will end up with, but I heard we have at least 25 head of cattle," Witman said.

The thrill to Witman and other committee members is to see how everything comes together on the auction days.

"We don't know what we will end up with because anyone who wants to donate items takes them to the fairgrounds on Friday," Witman said.

The auction draws crowds of 8,000-10,000.

Every cent raised at the auction goes to help those who suffer from natural disasters such as fire, flood, hurricane, tornadoes, earthquakes, and famine. A board determines where the money will be used. A portion is distributed to what is called the TURF fund in the Lancaster, York, and Harrisburg areas, and the remainder is forwarded to the church office to determine where it is needed for world disaster.

Although there is considerable expense for renting the fairgrounds, equipment and chairs, and for advertising the event, these expenses are all met through an annual kick-off dinner held in June. The dinner is held under a white tent set up on the lawn at Witman's home. Witmer provides a lavish feast on tables set with linen, china, stemware, and flowers.

About 500 tickets for the kick-off dinner are sold for $10 each on a first-come basis at a booth at the auction. The money from ticket sales and from an offering collected at the dinner goes to cover the cost of the auction. Donations at the dinner this year amounted to $15,952.

This year, the booklet advertising the sale is dedicated to Witman in appreciation for devoting "his time, energies, spirit, and resources to the auction far beyond what might be expected."

Witman continues to live with constant pain that he describes as the 'biggest belly ache that won't go away.'

Witman brushes off the tribute by saying, "I don't like the publicity. So many other people contribute to this and without their help, this would not be a success. The hours that a volunteer puts into quilting a quilt for the auction is just as important as what I do."

The hundreds of people who have served on committees during the past years are well aware and grateful for Witman who volunteers his time as an auctioneer, as chairman and member of the executive and publications committees, as a host for the kick-off dinners in his home, as a speaker, and as a generator of ideas for the auction.

The committee wanted to show their appreciation for Witman while he was still alive.

Although Witman is only 42 years old, he almost died several weeks ago.

Jay Witman holds a copy of the recently released cookbook that will be sold to raise money for disaster relief. This is only one of the projects that Witman started to raise funds for the Brethren Disaster Relief Auction, which has raised more than $3 million since its inception 19 years ago.

Witman suffers from Crohn's Disease, an incurable intestinal illnesses in which the body destroys the intestines and the body gathers little nutrition from the food eaten. He describes his illness as similar to having a garden hose that leaks poison inside his stomach.

His last serious bout was actually a complication from the treatment that poisoned his blood. Doctors said that he would never be able to use his legs again, but today, Witman can easily walk and anticipates being able to jog again. He can fulfill all his responsibilities as an auctioneer, bank director, and his affiliation with numerous committees.

'I have a great life,' he said. 'I love the feeling of completing public sales, but the Relief Auction is a project that I feel is the greatest accomplishment of my life.'

It wasn't the first time Witman defied death. Eight years ago, he was told he had only three weeks to live.

Of the team of eight doctors who treat him, most call his recovery miraculous.

Witman attributes his recovery to God and the prayers and support of thousands of people.

Because his body digests less than 15 percent of nutrition from the food that he eats, Witman has a "Hickman shunt" inserted through which he receives supplemental feeding and treatment. This is experimental, temporary treatment, which does not cure the illness. Witman continues to live with constant pain that he describes as the "biggest belly ache that won't go away."

He lives with the knowledge that each day might be his last.

"If it is my last day, then my biggest day is tomorrow because I'll be with God," Witman said.

His optimistic, upbeat attitude is not something that happened overnight, Witman said. The illness first began when he was 12 years old. Over the years, he learned the futility of asking, "Why me?" and of feeling sorry for himself.

He said, "We're all here on borrowed time. God knows our days. My problems are no greater than those of other people, only in a different area. I strive to live and work for God just like many other people."

He shuns pity.

"I have a great life," he said. "I love the feeling of completing public sales, but the Relief Auction is a project that I feel is the greatest accomplishment of my life."

A spokesperson for the executive committees said of Witman,

CUSTOMIZE YOUR GARDEN

Ever wonder why Americans put their gardens in their backyard? Our backyards are another room in the home. For that reason, let's make the garden work for the family. Consider your family's needs, interests and financial means, both now and in the future.

Many gardeners today want good views of the outside from vantage points inside the home. For a vegetable gardener, good garden views from a kitchen window, porch swing, patio or family room make for good "gardening conversation."

Why not incorporate long 4-foot-wide planting beds or crop strips into the design? Tomatoes grown as a staggered double row with a trickle irrigation system results in substantially higher yields.

Design walkways extra wide 2-4 feet for families that like to garden side by side. Wider walkways and outside lighting make it handy for late night picking and spotting garden predators.

Feeling under the weather? Herbs are an excellent mood pick-up! Why not choose the most popular herbs — like chives, basil, rosemary, lemon verbena, oregano, sweet marjoram, parsley, chives, French tarragon and thyme.

Vegetable gardening should be a family affair. Social interaction and sharing gardening ideas means plenty to time-starved families. Increase your gardening interest. Children love cages and trellis. Parents like fencing and irrigation made easy. Older gardeners love long handled tools, raised beds and tip-proof wheelbarrows.

Or, choose a vegetable for your garden with a story. Garlic has its friends and foes. Who would have thought that garlic might have the ability to lower cholesterol. For garlic growing suggestions, ask for "Growing Bulb Crops," a fact sheet for home gardeners from your Extension Office.

Be sure to consider your maintenance needs. Large garden areas not planted to cover crops get weedy fast.

Concern For Others

"Jay's determination and commitment in all he has undertaken on behalf of the auction, his leadership, his enthusiasm, his Christian spirit and character, his seemingly unlimited energies, and his dedication to the goals of the auction have been an inspiration to all who know him and have worked with him. Truly he is an example of the scripture (James 2:17): 'I will show you my faith by my works.'"

The auction will open on Friday, Sept. 22, with food sales and a farmers' market at 10 a.m. Sales of arts and crafts, baked goods, cookbooks, and Share-A-Meal certificates and previews of quilts will be available throughout the day. At 11 a.m., a heifer auction begins and at 7 p.m., a livestock auction. Evening musical entertainment will be performed by The Detrick Family.

Saturday activities open with 7 a.m. breakfast. Auction of new and used items begins at 8:30 a.m., lawn and garden items at 10 a.m., quilts at 10:30 a.m., Winross truck and toys at 11 a.m., and sports card auction at 1:30 p.m. Stands with other items for sale will be available throughout the day.

Cookbooks may be purchased for $20 each at the auction. The attractively printed cookbooks have tab dividers and include a brief history of the Church of the Brethren and of the Brethren Disaster Relief Auction. In addition to cooking hints, microwave tips, and related information, the cookbook includes numerous drawing and instructions for napkin folding.

Mail orders for the cookbook will be accepted only after Sept. 25 by sending $25, which includes postage and handling, to Landis and Audrey Myer, 145 S. Shirk Rd., New Holland, PA 17557.

For those who are interested in the cookbook, here is a sampling of recipes from it.

Bits of corn silage litter the floor, natural confetti in shades of beige, green and golden yellow.

This precious feedstuff also decorates the porches and lies thick along the roadside. Every time the forage chopper and chuck wagons pass, they drop bits that have clung to their metal parts during the harvesting process. Breezes toss it, passing cars swirl it and tracking feet drag it all over the place.

But the stuff in the house is not from passing wagons or from cars. It's dropped, sneakily and steadily, from passing pants cuffs. Shoes. And pockets.

Pockets are among the neatest of inventions. Likely they were devised by one of our early, ancestral farmers who needed to lug around a pocketknife and couple of fence insulators and creatively devised a pocket/pouch in his animal-skin garment.

And life for farm wives hasn't been the same since.

Besides their obvious practicality for holding things, pockets make some jobs much more interesting. Like laundry.

Despite those perky ladies on the television commercials whose life seems to center on having the brightest, whitest clothes, laundry is actually pretty boring. Most of us are just happy if we can see what color their T-shirts are when we're finished — if you can find color between the three-cornered rips, the tiny welding-spark holes and the giant blots of lube oil and hydraulic fluid.

But pockets add that exciting element of surprise.

One of the items falling more frequently out of laundered pockets in this household are small, tubular bits of sponge. Ear plugs. The Farmer II has been wearing ear plugs for work around equipment for several years now, much to my satisfaction. Hopefully he will be spared the equipment-roar deafness that afflicts many farmers after years of frequent exposure to high-decible farm machine noise.

No matter how flattened and misshaped those little sponge capsules become under the weight of a load of damp jeans, they bounce back into their original form after a short time and are ready for re-use. Plus, they're clean again.

More plentiful than ear plugs is the predictable farmer hardware. Fence staples, cow eartags, assorted nuts, bolts, nails, washers and miscellaneous metal fix-it stuff are routine residue. This assorted lost-and-found, after it has been washed, rinsed and spun a couple of times, accumulates in a clean, empty yogurt container on the dryer and is eventually shuffled back toward the shop.

Next to the recycled hardware is often a scattering of auction weight slips or parts delivery slips retrieved from pockets before they meet a watery demise. Though attempts are made to empty pockets of paper prior to their journey through would-be cleanliness, sometimes the job gets only half-done. Or not done. Then we have the extra added attraction of dark laundry speckled with soggy crumbs of bills or forgotten paper tissues left in pockets. Wallet fallout. (Not usually money!) Or shiny candy-bar papers. Empty, always, doggone it.

A few days ago, a different pocket problem turned up. Headed out for an evening walk, I stuffed a few dog biscuits in my pocket for the furry, white "grand-dog." When I reached into that pocket to retrieve them, one was missing. Poking a bit deeper, my finger went straight through the gaping hole in the pocket's bottom seam.

No one can ever justifiably accuse me of having "deep pockets."

But I can brag to my golfing brother that I get a hole in one.

Some Elders Escape Poverty

Washington, D.C. — Elderly poor people do not always remain destitute. A surprising number rise above the poverty line, even if only a notch or two.

"Our analysis of the Panel Study of Income Dynamics (PSID) for 1968-88 corroborates other studies showing considerable movement out of poverty among all poor elders," says Dr. Leif Jensen, associate professor of rural sociology in Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences.

"According to our sample, almost 40 percent break out of poverty after spending one year in poverty," notes Dr. Diane K. McLaughlin, deputy director of Population Research Institute. "However, their modest increases in total annual income and level of income-to-needs suggests that many of these elderly have moved only slightly above the poverty line."

Jensen and McLaughlin are co-authors of the paper, "Do Poor Elderly Ever Really Leave Poverty?" presented August 20 at a joint session of the annual meetings of the American Sociological Association and the Rural Sociological Society in Washington, D.C.

"Among people aged 65 or more, the prevalence of poverty and the probability of becoming poor are higher for rural than urban elderly, and they increase substantially with age, due to widowhood, disability and exiting the labor force," Jensen says.

"At the same time, however, there is also significant movement out of poverty among the elderly."

The Penn State researchers used the PSID data in determining what percentage of elderly poor were able to move above the poverty line after one year and over a period of time.

The original PSID study sample of 5,000 families included a subset of 2,000 low-income families.

"Of the sample group of 738 rural elderly who were poor for one year, 277 or 37.5 percent had escaped poverty after that first year," McLaughlin says.

The corresponding exit rate for urban elderly was slightly higher at 39.4 percent.

"We also learned that the rate at which poor elderly escaped from poverty is almost directly proportional to the number of years they had spent in poverty," Jensen says. "The more deeply entrenched the poverty, the less likely is the chance of exiting that poverty."

For rural elderly living in poverty between 11 and 20 years, the annual rate of transition out of poverty was only 5.7 percent (7 out of 123).

Without considering number of years in poverty, 22.2 percent of poor rural elders exited poverty in a given year, compared to 25.4 percent of their urban counterparts, McLaughlin says.

Zeneca Ag Announces Nationwide Breast Cancer Awareness Campaign Focuses On Rural Women

NEW YORK, N.Y. — Too many rural women may be dying from breast cancer, simply because their disease isn't being detected soon enough. Getting regular mammograms — the single most effective tool for finding breast cancer early — could save many of those lives. The problem, according to a survey by the American Cancer Society, is that two-thirds of rural women either don't know they need mammograms, or don't get them, even though they know they need them.

One of the nation's largest agrochemical companies is committed to changing that, with one of the most ambitious and far-reaching breast cancer awareness campaigns to date.

Zeneca Ag Products, and its parent, Zeneca Inc., are spearheading National Mammography Day (October 19), a day recognized officially in 1994 by President Clinton to encourage millions of American women — particularly those living in rural settings or who are otherwise underserved by the medical community — to get or sign up for mammograms. To further encourage the practice of mammography, many accredited radiologists will offer reduced-fee mammograms during October.

This year, Zeneca marks a decade-long commitment to breast cancer awareness. Ten years ago, the company launched the first-ever National Breast Cancer Awareness Month (NBCAM). Today, NBCAM has grown to become one of nation's largest and most recognized public education campaigns.

"We believe very deeply in this program, and felt it was something we had to do as a company that is in the business of serving the rural community," says Bob Woods, president of Zeneca Ag Products Group. "Our company is all about making life more abundant. I can't think of a better way to put our money where our mouth is, than to support a program that will enhance the length and quality of our customers' lives." But Woods adds that he has another and more personal reason. "I'm the father of three daughters," he says, "I want to do something to make the future better for them."

Zeneca has been largely responsible for rallying the radiology community to support National Mammography Day, a cornerstone of the NBCAM program. The American College of Radiology (ACR), the organization that accredits mammography facilities and an NBCAM sponsor, believes that the increased usage of mammography during the month of October in 1993 and 1994 is directly attributable to this special day.

This year, the third year of National Mammography Day, more radiologists than ever — over 2,000 — have already signed up to participate and the American College of Radiology continues to receive more registrations, according to Michael Bernstein, director of ACR Communications.

To locate an accredited radiologist participating in National Mammorgraphy Day, or to ask questions about mammography, women may call any one of five toll free numbers: American Cancer Society (1 - 800 - ACS - 2345); National Cancer Institute (1 - 800 - 4 - CANCER); National Alliance of Breast Cancer Organizations (1 - 800 - 719 - 9154); The Susan G. Komen Breast Cancer Foundation (1 - 800 - I'M AWARE); and Y-ME National Breast Cancer Organization (1 - 800 - 221 - 2141).

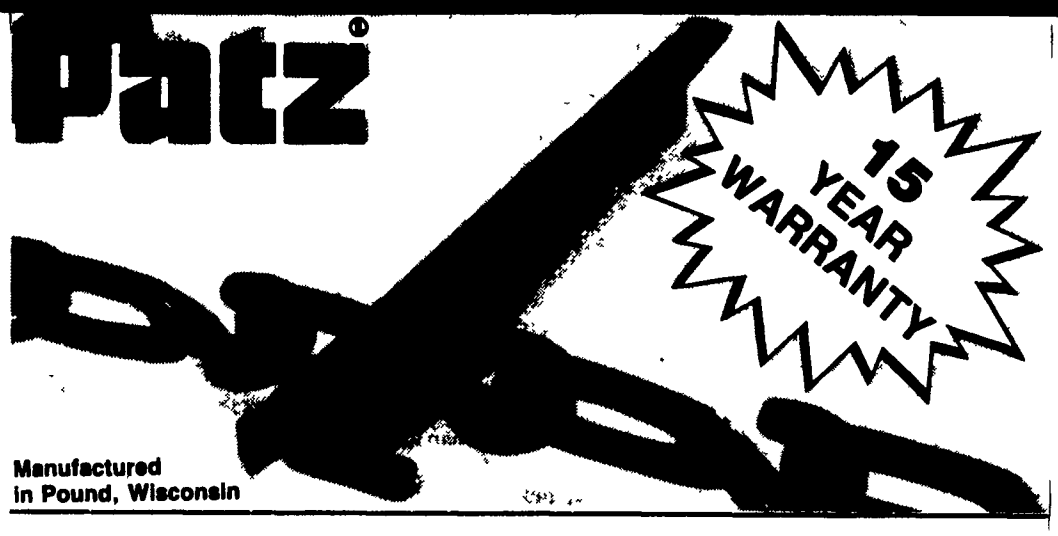
Patz®



Manufactured in Pound, Wisconsin

Here is something often overlooked...

Only Patz gives you 45 years of experience with hook-and-eye chain, resulting in a chain so good that others are attempting to copy it.

Many Patz Gutter Cleaner chains are still working well after more than 30 years of use.

After the Patz patent on hook-and-eye chain expired, some other companies have attempted to copy the Patz chain. Some promote 10- and 12-year warranties on chain—but they have not yet had 10 or 12 years of experience with hook-and-eye chain.

Patz has continued to improve its chain for 45 years with special-formula steel, special forging techniques and special steel hardening processes.

Rely on the proven, long-life chain. Patz provides a 15-year chain warranty because so many chains are working well long after 15 years of use.

Better yet, your Patz chain warranty is backed up by a solid, reliable company that has been serving farmers for 45 years with the same family ownership.

Insist on Patz chain!

What thousands of dairyman know: Patz chain is your best buy!

Bag A Lunch

A new school year signals the start of morning rush hour in many households. The kitchen is often the scene of family traffic jams as household members prepare on-the-run breakfasts and hastily pack bag lunches.

To put an end to some of the morning confusion and to help provide more creative, nutritious take-along lunches, here are some suggestions:

• Create a bag lunch menu that allows you to shop and plan ahead for supplies.

• Spread butter or mayonnaise right up to the edges on both slices of bread to prevent sandwich fillings from seeping through.

• Spread bread slices or hamburger buns out and, using an ice cream scoop, fill sandwiches assembly line fashion.

• Stack several sandwiches together and cut all at once.

• Cut sandwiches for youngsters in small, fun shapes — hamburger buns into pie-wedge quarters or bread into diagonal strips.

• For dieters, put sandwich filling into a scooped-out tomato, lettuce leaf, or pita pocket.

• Use salad dressings such as Thousand Island, Creamy Garlic, or Ranch Dressing to make excellent spreads for meats.

• Keep foods cold by packing into lunch bags or boxes with a chilled can of juice, frozen sandwich or cookies. Frozen items will thaw in time for lunch.

• Pack separate bags of sandwich garnishes such as lettuce, tomato, and green pepper slices, and celery sticks. Salad greens stay crisp if first wrapped in a damp paper towel.

• Pack a creative mixture of cheeses in one bag and a variety of crackers and breads in another.

• Save time and money by purchasing or making large amounts and portion-packing the items in tight bags and containers to seal in freshness. Cookies and sandwiches may be frozen until ready to use.

• Enlist the help of your children when packing lunches. If children help prepare a meal, they are less inclined to throw it away. Older children should be encouraged to look through cookbooks for ideas for lunches.

• Bagles with light cream cheese or peanut butter is a healthy alternative to sandwiches.

• Pack bite-size wheat, rice, and corn cereal squares.

• Melon balls and cubes of fresh fruit in a plastic container.

ANSWER — Elsie Clippinger, Three Springs, wanted to know how to dry seedless grapes into raisins for baking by using a dehydrator. Thanks to Barbara Grier for sending the following instructions. Well-ripened grapes may be left whole or cut in half. Whole seedless grapes should be dipped in boiling water 30 seconds to split the skins. Spread grapes on dehygrator trays and dry at 115 degrees for 24-48 hours. Stir occasionally and rotate trays once or twice.

ANSWER — For the reader who wanted a recipe for pie crumbs, here is a different one from a reader named Judith.

Pie Crumbs

1 cup dry rolled oats
1 cup brown sugar
1 cup flour
½ cup margarine
½ cup nuts, chopped

Mix together ingredients and toast at 350 degrees in a flat pan for 25 minutes. Stir once or twice during baking. Cool. Store in a tight container and use as needed on pie tops.

ANSWER — A reader wanted to know what Clear Jell is and where it can be purchased. Clear Gel is often found in the bulk food sections of grocery stores. It is a white powder that looks similar to cornstarch. Clear Gel is a modified food starch made by a commercial food processor. To use Clear Jel, use the same proportions as cornstarch. Clear Gel does not break down when reheated and won't separate when used in canning or freezing fruits. It does not weep like cornstarch. Instant Clear Jel thickens as soon as combined with water. Mix Clear Gel with sugar before adding water.

ANSWER — A Paradise farm wife wanted to know how to make bagel sandwiches like those sold in restaurants. See instructions in the "Home On The Range" section on B6.

Microwave Cooking Less Efficient At Killing Harmful Bacteria

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Food is cooked not only to make it taste good, but also to destroy harmful bacteria that can cause food-borne illness. By structuring a series of research projects around how consumers cook with microwave ovens, scientists in Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences have established that microwave cooking often does not completely eliminate bacteria.

"Most consumers use microwaves to cook to a certain time, rather than to a certain temperature," says Stephanie Doores, associate professor of food science. "Because microwaves heat unevenly, there is a good chance that not all parts of the food will reach a uniform temperature, and microorganisms will survive the cooking process."

Doores and Roger C. Montemayor, graduate student in food science from Conshohocken, Pa., just completed a project focusing on B. cereus, a pathogen commonly found in dried food products.

The B. cereus pathogen was chosen because it forms spores, a protective covering that allows the bacteria to survive in a dormant state. In its spore form, B. cereus is much more heat-resistant than other food-borne bacteria, Doores explains.

"Some spore-forming bacteria can survive the drying process used to preserve some foods," Montemayor explains. "Once you mix dry ingredients with water and subject the mixture to heat again, these spores may germinate and cause food-borne illness."

Montemayor prepared three food products — infant formula, instant mashed potato flakes and nonfat dried milk — following the directions as a consumer would. He then placed each product in a microwave oven. Using a fluoroptic probe to measure temperatures in several different locations within the food product, Montemayor established that microwave cooking did not deliver a uniform temperature throughout the food within the recommended cooking time.

Microwaving also did not destroy any of the B. cereus spores. Montemayor then subjected the food to temperature abuse, a food science term that means leaving food out at room temperature for a period of time. Then, he refrigerated the products for four days. In most of the experiemnts, food-borne disease toxins had formed after temperature abuse.

"What made this project unique is that we used naturally occurring B. cereus spores, rather than microorganisms grown in the laboratory," Montemayor says. "Naturally occurring bacteria can be unreliable because you might get none in one sample and product toxin in the other sample. But we used B. cereus because bacteria that has been raised in a lab may not behave as naturally occurring bacteria would."

Doores and another researcher, Ronald Heddleson, now at North Carolina State University, performed similar research on such bacteria as Listeria monocytogenes, Staphylococcus aureus and Salmonella. Using laboratory-grown bacteria, the team found that microwaving greatly decreased bacterial numbers, but did not eliminate them entirely — except in the case of minimally contaminated foods.

"Most people use microwave ovens for reheating leftovers or rewarming take-out food," Doores says. "Because microwave cooking does not kill bacteria to the extent that conventional cooking does, food safety becomes a real concern. If these food products are left out on the counter too long and then are not heated to a consistent temperature for a safe period of time, bacteria might not be killed."

Doores warns that food-borne illnesses can be particularly acute for senior citizens, chemotherapy patients, pregnant women and people with immune systems compromised by disease. "These people also might be more likely to opt for takeout meals or leftovers," Doores says. "We are suggesting that people should rewarm their food to a specific temperature for longer periods of time."

Sea Feather — The Miracle Colt

SHANNON SZYMANSKI
(with Lois Szymanski)

WESTMINSTER, Md. — "Can we have a colt?" This is a question that my sister Ashely and I ask each year and every year on our way to vacation at Chincoteague Island in Virginia. We go to see the wild pony swim and round-up and to see the foals as they are auctioned off on the carnival grounds. Every year we ask, and every year my parents say "no." But this year we had a back-up plan!

"We have $500 saved," I said before they could even answer. It must have surprised them because Mom and Dad were quiet for a moment, exchanging looks. I thought about how hard we had worked all summer to save the money we had.

Finally, Mom answered with a noncommital, "Maybe."

"But we worked so hard at the carnivals this year," I said. "We've saved almost all of our money, and we haven't spent it!"

Then, Dad offered a compromise. "If you can go from today (which was Monday), until Thursday when the wild pony auction is held, without spending any of your money... and you can actually get one for $500, then we'll agree," he said.

I heard Dad tell Mom that it would be a good lesson if we didn't get one and we had to save an extra year. But Ash and me were so happy nothing could wipe the smiles off of our faces!

What we didn't realize is that every kid this side of the country would be at that auction with twice the money we had to spend.

We went from Monday to Thursday withut buying as much as a stick of gum! I even talked Ashley out of a 20¢ postcard she wanted to buy to send to her friend.

On the day of the auction we got out of bed early, by 5 a.m. Mom pulled us aside and explained that we might not get a pony because they had sold for more than $500 the year before. But we still didn't believe that. We just knew this would be our year to finally get a piece of the legend, a real Chincoteague pony!

When we got to the carnival grounds we were lucky enough to get the last seat in the front row. The firemen who run the auction were having trouble with their public address equipment. Since my sister sings country music and had sung the night before at the Misty Museum, we had a cordless microphone, amplifier and speakers in our van, so my mom went to offer them to the firemen to use. This gave my sister the opportunity to talk to a fireman. She's never been shy. In fact, she'll strike up a conversation with anyone! So, while Dad helped one fireman set up our cordless microphone and amplifier, Ashley was telling another fireman, David Savage, how much we wanted a pony, and how we had been coming every year since 1988. Mr. Savage told us we might be able to get one, "but they do go high," he told us. "Hey, I'll kick in $25, if you get that close," he added with a smile.

Soon the auction began. Ashley stood up and yelled $500 for every colt that came out. We had decided we wanted a colt, (a boy foal) because geldings made nicer mounts. We already had an ornery mare at home. The auctioneer, Bernie Pleasants started making jokes about Ashley. "That little girl over there has $500 to spend

Shannon and Ashley give Sea Feather a hug. Feather's new friends can be seen in the background. (Crista is the white 13.2 hand mare and Rockerfritz is the 10 hand black and white pinto) and she really wants a foal," he'd say. "Now, who wants to start this one at $1,000."

It was terrible! All of the ponies were going for a lot more than we had. The average price was around $900 to $1,000. After 45 foals, we started to get real discouraged.

Then, the fireman, David Savage came over with a man and a lady. "I want you to meet Carrollyn and Ed," he said. "They want to talk to you folks."

"We want to help your kids get a pony," Ms. Carrollyn said, and my heart caught in my throat. I just couldn't believe what I was hearing!

"That is so nice," my mom said with surprise, "but, no. They have to learn to only buy what they can afford."

"Oh, please," the lady said. "We came to the island to buy a foal to donate back, but they have already sold the ones to be donated back."

Now Dad was shaking his head. "I don't think so," he said. "It just wouldn't be right."

Now Ms. Carrollyn started to get tears in her eyes. "You don't understand," she told them. "I almost died this year. I had a massive brain tumor. The doctors told me the surgery could kill me, or I could be paralyzed, but I lived, and now I feel like I have to give something back."

I saw my mom get tears in hre eyes and I felt like I was going to cry, too. People around us were dabbing at their eyes with tissues. Then, my mom hugged Ms. Carrollyn. "I am so glad you are okay," she said. "But there are so many other places to give something back."

Now Ms. Carrollyn was really crying "You'll think this is strange, but I have to tell you why I think I am supposed to help you buy a foal," she said. "The whole time I was sick I kept reading this psalm in the Bible that says, 'The Lord will cover you with his feathers and protect you,' and I believe he did. Now feathers have a special meaning to me. They are like a sign."

Ashley (in white), Sea Feather and Shannon (in black) are racing off to find new adventures together!

I noticed she was wearing a pin with feathers on it.

"When the firemen pointed you out," she continued, "I noticed that your daughter had a shirt on it with feathers."

I looked down, remembering that I had on my Indian shirt with feathers on it on.

"Then," she said, "a big white feather drifted down by my feet. I think it was a sign that we are supposed to help buy your girls a foal."

I felt tears spilling down my cheeks. I saw that my mom was crying, too. Then I noticed the firemen patting my dad's arm. "Come on, man," he said. "Let them do it!" and tears were running down his face, too.

"Okay," Dad said, and I felt my whole body explode with happiness.

Several foals later, a tall bay colt came strutting out with two firemen holding onto him tight. He had white stockings and a white star on his forehead. He was perfect. We started bidding and got him for $1,000.

As we walked over to pay for the foal, Ms. Carrollyn said, "It would

104th Cambria County Auction Is The Place To Be

LORETTA GOLDEN
Cambria Co. Correspondent

EBENSBURG (Cambria Co.) — The 104th Annual Cambria County Fair opened Sunday, Sept. 3 and ran through Sept. 9. As usual, the fair offered "something for everyone," appealing to all age groups. With opening day temperatures in the 70's and the rest of the week about the same, the fair was the place to be. Usually, in Cambria County, "Fair Week" is a wet one. With this year's drought, hopes were high that with the fair would come the rain. This was not the case and the dry weather continued.

The Grandstand was the center of the week's live entertainment — quite a bit of country music most nights and an auto "thrill" show on Thursday. Rides operated on the midway, local food vendors were in abundance, and many business displays were set up in the exhibit buildings. The Ag buildings were full of baked goods, home canned goods, fresh vegetables, flowers and horticulture displays, photography and art displays, and many other handicrafts. All participants were hoping for that "blue ribbon."

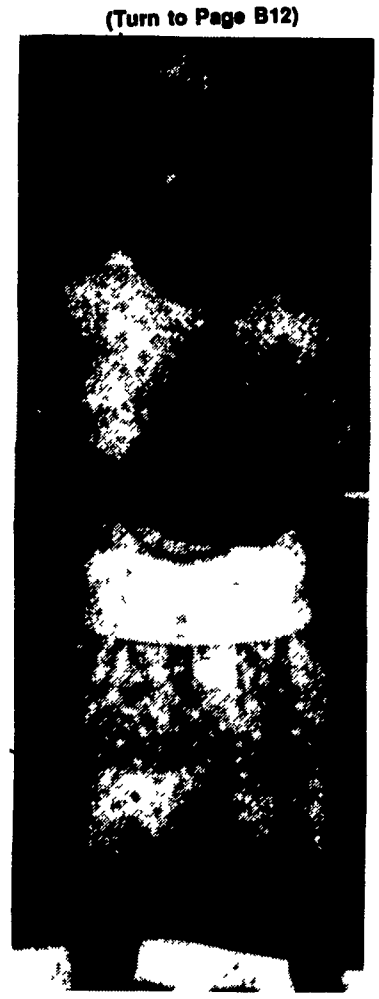
Brandy Cihan, a 13-year-old member of a Patton area 4-H sewing group, is hoping for a blue ribbon with her entries of a sundress and a pillow.



Amber Kalwasinski, 10-year-old Portage area resident, enters her pot of marigolds at the horticulture building.

Dotl Mrkich helps her mother Dottie to decorate the stall for their horse Naughtia and pony Twinkie.

be neat if you named him something with 'Feather' in it," she said. "You don't have to," she quickly added. "He is your foal!"

"Yeah!" Ashley said with a grin. "We can call him Ocean Feather, or Sea Feather!"

We walked to the pen to see our new baby colt. Then he turned around. "Look," Mr. Ed said incredulously. "He has a feather on his neck!"

Sure enough, our little Sea Feather was not a solid bay as we had thought. For on his neck was the single white mark that made him a pinto, and it was in the shape of a jagged feather!

Later, Dad said that he didn't get to teach us a lesson about saving. But Mom said that we had learned a valuable lesson. For years we have been volunteering for 4-H and the Therapeutic Riding Program, and events that a local steam club holds, and other worthwhile charities. Mom has always aid, you get out of life what you put into it. "Things come back to you when you give of yourself," she always says. Well, this time it really did!

Sea Feather is a sweet, loving colt who has quickly made friends with our two other ponies, Rockerfritz and Crista. He is our little miracle foal. Without Ms. Carrollyn and Mr. Ed our dream would not have come true. They wouldn't let us use their last name because they don't want to be praised, but Ashley and me want to say thank you from the bottom of our heart. We love Sea Feather ... and we think he loves us, too!

John and Mary Yahner, Chest Springs residents, posing beside the stall decorations which Mary helped son, Dan Gooderham, to set up.

Jessica Strittmatter, age 17, of R.D. Ebensburg, was named the 1995 Cambria County Fair Queen. Here, she is shown with "Snow White," her 4-H hog which was named the Reserve Grand Champion. The "Seven Dwarfs" were also part of the Strittmatter Family 4-H hog entries. Jessica is a member of the Wilderness Hollow 4-H club.

Andy Myers, age 11, the 1994 Baby Beef Grand Champion, getting help from his brother, Reed, age 8, and hi dad, Mark, with this year's entry, "Montana," an Angus cross. Andy is eagerly awaiting this year's competition and said that he thoroughly enjoys the fair because it is "fun." The Myers family, along with mom, Diane, and 5-year-old, Erin, are residents of the Rager's Corner area of Cambria County. The family is also active in raising capons and the children also each have a capon entered in competition.

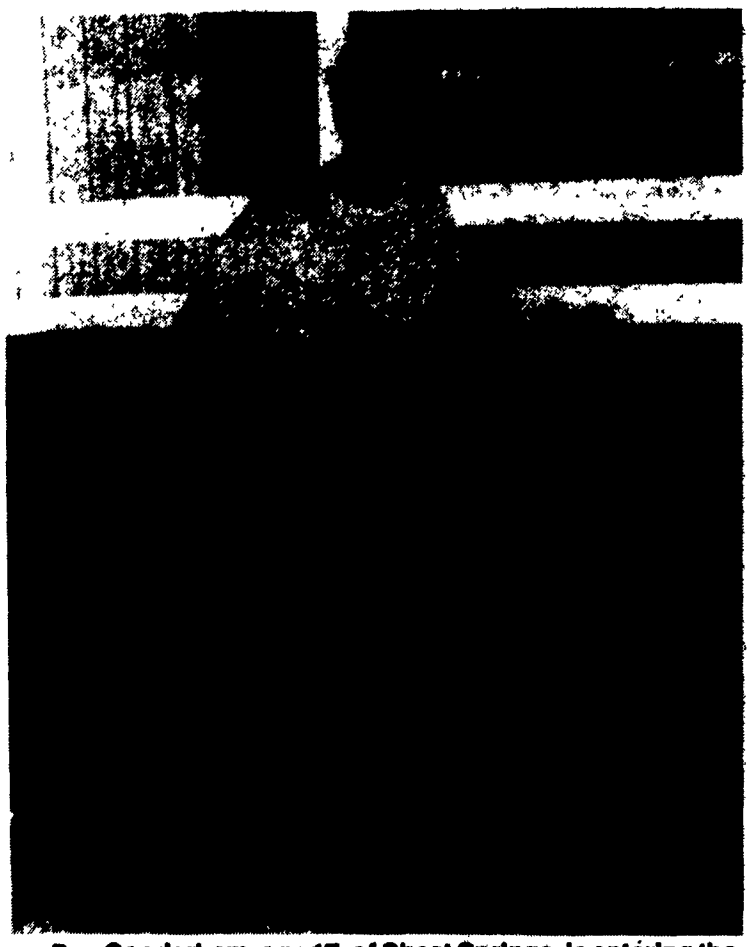
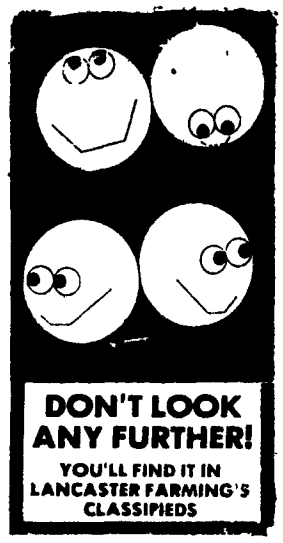
hogs, dairy, market lambs, veal, baby beef, and horses.

A new "ag" feature at this year's fair was the "Hay Stacking Contest." This was sponsored by the Cambria County 4-H Livestock Committee. It was a timed event with a number of teams competing. Each team consisted of three members, with at least one female participant, one 4-H member or 4-H parent, family member, leader or committee member. The main objectives of the hay-stacking contest was to provide some diversity and activity that youth could participate in and to keep alive the tradition of handling small square bales.



Dan Gooderham, age 17, of Chest Springs, is entering the fair for the first time with his steer "Eddie." Dan is the son of John and Mary Yahner. Note: Dan's steer was a second-place winner in its weight class.

Mary Beyer, with sons Dan (left), and Joe, of Sidman, R.D. "show off" some of their fair entries. The Beyer family has been bringing items to the Cambria County Fair for approximately 15 years and have won countless red and blue ribbons over the years. Dan won a blue ribbon at the 1994 fair for the "biggest pepper" and hopes that some of this year's entries are blue ribbon winners!



Kelly Conrad of Ebensburg, and Amanda and Jebadiah Baker, of Loretto with the rabbits that they have entered in the fair. Kelly is a member of the Blacklick Valley 4-H Rabbit Club and this will be her final 4-H fair entry. Amanda belongs to the Misty Hollow 4-H Rabbit Club and this is the first time she has entered the fair.

Dairy Fun At New York State Fair

Dairy Farmer's Daughter Wins Ice Cream Essay Contest

SYRACUSE, NY — Eight-year old Dara Hanselman from Bloomville, NY, was named the grand prize winner in the New York "Why I Love Ice Cream" essay contest sponsored by the American Dairy Association and Dairy Council, Inc. (ADADC). The daughter of Ernie and Barbara, Dara was awarded a year's supply of ice cream, donated by Borden's, a mooing ice cream scoop and an ice cream t-shirt after reading her winning essay to dairy enthusiasts on Dairy Day at the New York State Fair.

The statewide essay contest was held for all youngsters, ages 8-10. Local dairy princesses throughout New York state conducted county contests by publicizing through newspapers articles, radio stations and school presentations. Winners were chosen in their local counties for prizes such as ice cream parties and ice cream freezers. Each county winner moved on to the state level, where the grand prize winner and two runner-ups were selected based on creativity, writing ability and knowledge and usage of product.

Dara says she loves ice cream becaues "it's sweet, smooth, made with lots of toppings, and made with delicious ice cold milk." According to her mother, Dara eats ice cream every day after school and will eat any flavor or combination of ice cream possible. The Hanselman family lives on a 200-acre farm in Delaware County where they milk 65 registered Holsteins and Brown Swiss dairy cows. Dara is one of seven children.

Also reading their award winning essays were runner-up winners Amanda Adler, Seneca Falls, NY; and Susan DeBottis, Erieville, NY.

Here are the winning essays.

Grand Prize Winner
Dara Haselman

I love ice cream because it is sweet, smooth, made with lots of toppings, and made with delicious ice cold milk. It's my favorite snack. I eat it in the winter, spring, summer, and fall. My favorite kind is vanilla but I'll eat any kind of ice cream. So come on grab a spoon and join me.

Susan DeBottis
Runner-Up Winner

I love ice cream because it comes in all kinds of colors. I love them all. I have an ice cream maker and I enjoy making ice cream with real cream and sugar in it. I love the names of the ice cream flavors like Rocky Road and Heavenly Hash. I love ice cream because it's healthy and it tastes good when you're sick and when you're healthy. Sometimes my family has sundaies for dinner. You can do so many things with ice cream and that's why I love ice cream so much!

Runner-Up Winner
Amanda Adler

I love ice cream for lots of reasons. It's cool on hot days and it tastes so good. It's something my family enjoys eating together and we make home made ice cream at most of our birthday parties. Ice cream is my favorite dairy product. It tastes great with toppings. There are many flavors to choose from. My mom says that the best way to eat ice cream is in a cone becaues there aren't any dishes to wash, and I love eating ice cream much much more than washing dishes.

Participate In Milk Mustache Contest

SYRACUSE, NY — You've seen the famous faces with milk mustaches in the magazines. Now milk mustaches aren't just for celebrities. The National Fluid Milk Processor Promotion Board is sponsoring a nationwide search for an alternative portrait to the models, athletes, and movie stars you see now. At the New York State Fair in Syracuse, the American Dairy Association and Dairy Council, Inc. (ADADC) promoted the nationwide contest by taking complimentary photos of fairgoers daily. Kick off day was Tuesday, August 29 at 10 a.m. and photo taking continued through Labor Day, Monday, September 4.

Pocket change is all that was needed to enter. After purchasing a 25-cent glass of ice cold white or chocolate milk from the Rainbow Milk Bar in the Dairy Products Building, fairgoers posed with their best milk mustache. After dairy princesses snapped the picture, official entry blanks were given which explained a register receipt for a gallon of milk must accompany the photo by Septembr 30. The winning smile will be the next full-page milk mustached personality in Life magazine. Fifty pictures were taken daily.

Farmers can participate too. Milk drinkers of all ages are encouraged to chug a cold glass of milk and then smile for the camera with some attitude of charm, charisma or mystery. Send your photo and proof of purchase for a gallon of milk to the following address by Saturday, Sept. 30: Milk Mustache Photo Contest, P.O. Box 8552, Prospect Heights, Illinois 60070.

Don't miss this chance to make your lips famous.

Onondaga County Dairy Princess Kim Fesko takes a Polaroid photo of these milk mustaches, while the ABC affiliate Syracuse television station captures the action for a feature story. For seven of the 12 days at the New York State Fair dairy princesses took photos of the first 50 milk mustaches each day. The American Dairy Association and Dairy Council organized the event as a local extension to the national milk mustache contest, where the winner's picture will be featured on the cover of Life magazine.

Butter Sculpture Shows 'Everybody Loves Cookies And Milk'

SYRACUSE, NY — "Everybody Loves Cookies and Milk" was the theme of the 1995 Butter Sculpture, unveiled at the New York State Fair by the American Dairy Association and Dairy Council, Inc. (ADADC). Crafted from 800 pounds of butter in 84 hours over eight days, the sculpture features a milk carton and cartoon cookies and cupcakes. The sculpture plays off the popular television commercial featured in the "Milk. Help Yourself" advertising campaign. Donated by Dairylea Cooperative and Milk Marketing, Inc., the butter comes from O-At-Ka in Batavia, NY, and is donated to charity after the Fair.

The butter sculpture has enjoyed a long and reputable existence at the Fair. For more than a quarter century, it has been the focal point of the Dairy Products Building, which houses the Rainbow Milk Bar, the Dairy Princess booth, a variety of dairy displays and lots of dairy products to purchase. The purpose of the sculpture is to emphasize the importance of milk and dairy products by creating an image that fits in with contemporary lifestyles, symbols or personalities.

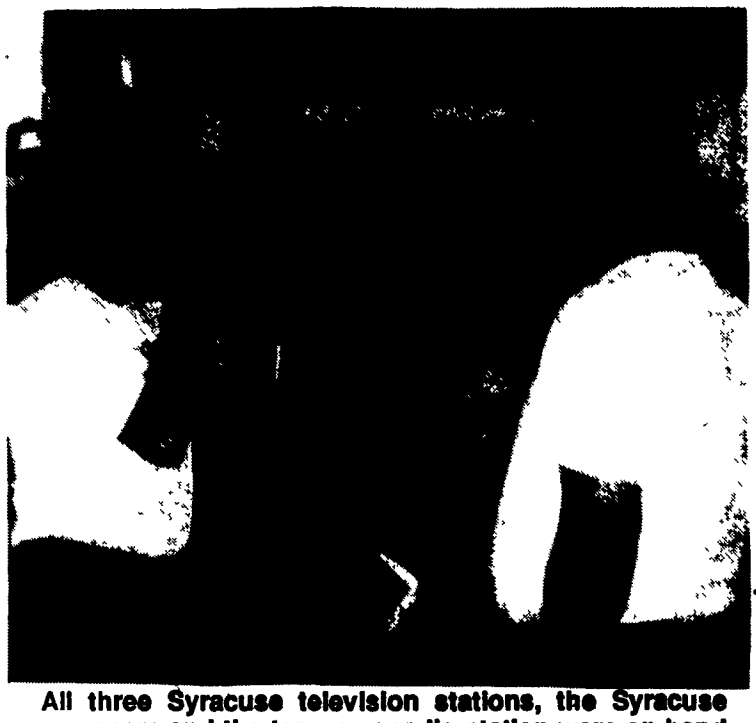
Prior to the Fair, a temporary problem with a generator was cause for concern, as Fair officials feared the sculpture would suffer the same fate as a similar sculpture at the Illinois State Fair. In early August, a life-sized cow constructed of 610 pounds of unsalted butter melted when electrical power to the cooler was turned off. In Syracuse, the temperature in the refrigerated case rose through the 60's before the problem was fixed.



All three Syracuse television stations, the Syracuse newspapers and the top news radio station were on hand for the butter sculpture unveiling held prior to Fair opening. Here, sculptor Duke Epolito explains how the sculpture was created to the reporter at the CBS affiliate television station.

"Everybody Loves Cookies and Milk" was the theme of the 1995 New York State Fair butter sculpture unveiled by the American Dairy Association and Dairy Council, Inc. (ADADC). Crafted from 800 pounds of butter in 84 hours over eight days, the scupiture features a carton of milk and cartoon cookies and cupcakes as featured in the "Let's Go Out to the Kitchen" commercial, part of ADADC's "Milk. Help Yourself" ad campaign.

While fairgoers were able to enjoy the butter sculpture as usual, the big news is the resurgence in sales of REAL dairy butter. Annual consumption was just over four pounds in 1994, the highest it's been since 1977, and up 6% from the previous year (or 60 million pounds more butter sold). Market observers suggest several reasons for this steady increase in butter consumption: recent scientific studies questioning the health benefits of margarine, lower butter prices and the "pleasure revenge" — consumers seeking enjoyable eating experiences once again.

Hand-Cranked Ice Cream And Cheese Auction

SYRACUSE, NY — As a tribute to th dairy industry in New York state, the American Dairy Association and Dairy Council, Inc. (ADADC) sponsored Dairy Day at the New York State Fair on Monday, August 28. Syracuse media "cranked it out" for the annual celebrity ice cream making contest highlighting the Dairy Day activities. Eight teams from local radio and television stations and the Syracuse newspapers made ice cream the old-fashioned, hand-cranked way.

Each team chose their own secret ingredients. From Heath Bars and Peppermint Patties, to peanut butter and cinnamon rolls. No two flavors were alike. Teams added their ingredients to the basic ice cream mix which was donated by Crowley Foods of Binghamton. Their ice cream creations were judged on the best-tasting and most original flavor.

While the teams were cranking their ice cream, the ever-popular Big Cheese Auction entertained dairy enthusiasts of all ages. After several smaller 5-pound blocks were auctioned, the 150-pound wheel of New York state gold medal Cheddar cheese was up for bids. For a record $1275, Ed Slusarczyk of Ag Radio Network purchased the Big Cheese and donated it to the New York State Dairy Princess Program for the second year in a row.

Other Dairy Day activities included a dairy awards brunch, dairy princess presentations and dairy parade. All activities promoted dairy products and saluted the hard-working dairy farmers of New York state.

While Dairy Day proved to be exciting, the significance of the dairy industry in New York state was featured every day during the Fair. The Dairy Products Building houses a wide array of exhibits. The 27th annual butter sculpture, a variety of dairy displays, live entertainment, cheese-making demonstrations and exhibits on newly developed dairy products and nutrition were just some of the highlights.

An adventure filled trip through Dairyrama taught visitors about the dairy industry from cow to container and showed consumers and dairy farmers how they depend on one another in the dynamic world of food production, processing, marketing and consumption.

Also in the Dairy Products Building, fairgoers could sample NYS dairy products and purchase prize winning NYS Cheddar cheese and other delicious items. After seeing the exhibits, it was difficult to resist cooling off with a "state fair tradition" — a 25 cent cup of cold, fresh white or chocolate milk from the Rainbow Milk Bar.

Ad Subject To Change

To those who have been following a strict diabetic diet plan, it's good news to hear recent research that shows sugar is no longer taboo. But Browning cautions workshop participants that moderation is necessary.

Good News For Diabetics

Sugar Is Not A Poison

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

LEESPORT (Berks Co.) — "There are no forbidden foods in a diabetic's diet. You can even eat cake with frosting," said Susan Browning, a registered dietitian.

At a recent workshop on "Sugar is not a Poison," Browning told participants attending the session offered by Berks County Extension that any food may be worked into a diabetic's diet.

Previously, the medical profession believed that items containing sugar needed to be avoided by diabetics. But recent research shows eating a brownie will have the same effect on your blood glucose levels as eating a potato.

The table sugar (sucrose) in the brownie is considered a simple carbohydrate. The starch in the potato is a complex carbohydrate. Both simple and complex carbohydrates boost blood glucose levels because the body breaks down both forms of carbohydrates into glucose.

Recently released studies show that diabetes care is much different than previously thought.

It's good news for diabetics who often feel cheated in enjoying the sweet tastes of life.

But, Browning cautions persons with diabetes, "That doesn't mean you can eat as big of piece of cake as you feel like doing."

She suggests a two-inch square of frosted cake as an adequate serving portion. And when figuring that into the diet plan of a diabetic, that accounts for two carbohydrates, two breads, and one fat.

The plan calls for trade-offs in which food from all food groups is selected with a pre determined caloric amount. Browning shied away from recommending an average recommended diet for diabetics because, she said, "amounts are highly individualized, dependent upon height, weight, sex, activity level, the type of diabetes and the type of medicine used.

"Individuals who are on a restricted diet should sit down with a dietitian and work out portions and calories," she said.

"Moderation is the key," Browning stressed. "What matters is the amount of total carbohydrates you ingest. The more carbohydrates you eat, the more your blood glucose level will rise."

Based on recent studies, the American Diabetes Association has revised its "Nutritional Recommendations and Principles for Individuals With Diabetes Mellitus."

Browning referred to "The American Dietetic Association's Exchange Lists for Meal Planning" as the bible for nutritional counseling. It teaches people how to make food substitutions and how the exchange plan works.

"It's more important for those with diabetes to maintain consistent meals, cut down on fat, and lose excess weight than to worry about sugar," Browning said.

At the same time, you must remember that foods that contain sugar are often high in fat. Sugar adds 16 calories per teaspoon without providing vitamins, minerals, or fiber.

It is better to eat fresh fruit because it is rich in vitamins, minerals, and fiber than it is to eat a baked dessert with the same amount of sugar.

To make wise food choices, Browning said, one should know how to read the new food labels. "You must make sure that the label serving size is the same serving you use when calculating calories," she said.

Good recommendations to keep in mind when eating, Browning said, are "never add fat to anything and do not fry under any circumstances."

Exercise helps improve glucose tolerance and burns off calories.

Those individuals who have problems with blood sugar levels should consult their physican or dietitian.

"There are no forbidden foods in a diabetic diet," said Susan Browning, a registered dietitian.

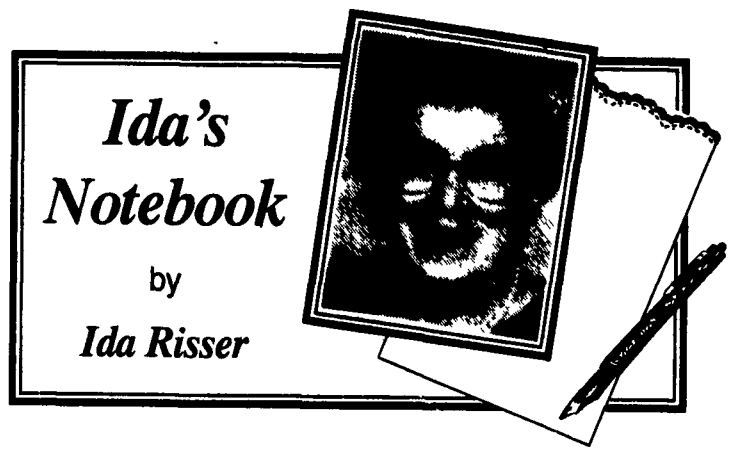
FORD NEW HOLLAND CREDIT



Just as I sat down to write this article I heard the mantel clock strike. This was followed closely by the Grandfather's clock. Time is such a fleeting thing. Sometimes it seems to move rapidly and other times so very slowly.

When our grandson was here the other morning, he heard the clocks strike and said, "It is time to eat." You see, he knows that we eat at noon when the clocks strike but he must learn that striking ten doesn't mean it is time to eat. However, I did give him a dish of strawberries as we have the everbearing kind.

When we are carefree and having fun with friends, then time flies by quickly. But, when we sit in a hospital waiting for a spouse to come from the operating room, then the hand on the clock barely moves.

If I have a lot of sweet corn to get frozen before a meeting, then the clock's hands move too quickly as I rush to get my work done. But, when I sit at home and wait for someone to come then it seems that it takes forever.

When I sat beside my dying mother, a few years ago; I had no sense of time at all. Was it 9 o'clock or 11 o'clock?

As I watch the Conestoga River flow past our meadows, I often think of the fact that it was here over 250 years ago when my ancestors came to Lancaster County. It was here long before that when the Indians hunted and fished in this area. As the saying goes, "Men may come and men may go but I go on forever," says the river.

ANSWER — For all cooks who are searching for recipes to use up an abundance of tomatoes, here are several recipes from Stan's Kitchen, Dallas.

Mushroom Lasagna

2 teaspoons olive oil
1 medium onion, finely chopped
2 cloves garlic, crushed
1 bay leaf
½ teaspoon thyme
3¼ cups sliced mushrooms
2 tablespoons cornstarch
1¼ cups skim milk
1¼ cups plain yogurt
Salt or gomasio if preferred
2½ cups broccoli flowerets
⅔ cups diced carrots
2 tablespoons pine nuts
Black pepper
9 pieces whole wheat lasagna
2 teaspoons cornstarch
2 tablespoons freshly grated parmesan cheese

Heat oil in a saucepan and gently fry onions and garlic for 4-5 mintues or until onion is soft. Add bay leaf, thyme, and mushrooms. Simmer the sauce over a low heat for 10 minutes. Dissolve 2 tablespoons cornstarch in a little milk.

Pour the remaining milk over mushrooms. When heated through, stir in the dissolved cornstarch. Cook for 5 minutes until thickened, stirring all the time. Remove the bay leaf. Remove pan from heat and stir in ⅔ cup yogurt. Season with salt and pepper. Steam the broccoli and carrots until fairly soft. Place in a bowl. Mix in pine nuts and season with salt and pepper.

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Cook lasagna 8 to 10 minutes. Put a layer of mushroom sauce in the bottom of lightly oiled baking dish, cover with a layer of lasagne, broccoli mixture, and sauce. Repeat the layers.

Mix the 2 teaspoons cornstarch with the remaining yogurt. Pour over lasagna. Sprinkle the top with white parmesan cheese. Bake 25 to 30 degrees.

Tomato Puree Seasoned

4 quarts peeled, cored chopped tomatoes
3 cups chopped onion
2 cups sliced carrots
2 cups chopped celery
1½ cups chopped green peppers
1 tablespoon salt

Combine ingredients. Cook until tender. Press through fine sieve. Cook pulp until thick about 1½ hours. Stir frequently to prevent sticking. Pour hot mixture into canning jars, leaving ¼ -inch head space. Process in half pints and pints for 45 minutes in boiling water bath. Yields about 9 half pints.

Thanks to Verna Lauver, Ephrata, for sending directions she found in a woodworking magazine. And to Kay Landis, Hamburg, for sending an address to purchase supplies.

Milk Paint

Use 1 quart skim milk or buttermilk (butter fat is not good in painting).

⅓ cup hydrated (slaked) lime (not quick lime (caustic lime), or ground agricultural limestone. Hydrated lime is available from garden stores or masonary supply companies.

Use alkali-proof earth pigments for the colored minerals. These are available for coloring mortar and concrete. Whiting (calcium carbonate or chalk) adds opacity. The amount of color to use will vary with the depth of color and consistency you want. Use about the same amount of earth pigment as the amount of lime used.

You may also buy powdered milk paint (in 16 historic colors) at some paint stores or direct from The Old-Fashioned Milk Paint Company, Box 222,Groton, MA 01450-0222.

ANSWER — Jeanine Riddle, St. Marys, wanted a recipe for dough to make non-edible gingerbread men for crafts. Thanks to Laura Gouge-Franciscus, Dallastown, for sending a recipe.

Non-edible Gingerbread Men

Mix ¾ -1 cup applesauce with 4-ounces ground cinnamon to form a stiff dough. Roll dough to ¼ -inch thickness. Cut with cookie cutters, make hole for ribbon. Carefully place on rack to dry. Let air dry for several days, turning occasionally. Makes approximately 12 sweet-smelling ornaments.

Minimal downtime and easy accessibility are key elements in the design of a Maximizer Combine. We've made servicing the belts, chains – even the header – quick and easy for your hectic harvest schedule.

Down to the smallest detail, a Maximizer Combine is the picture of reliability. From the header to the chaff spreader, and everything in between, John Deere quality comes shining through for minimal downtime. No wonder you find more and more John Deere combines earning their keep throughout the East.

Ask your John Deere dealer how to get the most out of a narrow harvest window. The answer will be a Maximizer Combine.

The main news item these days is the continuing drought. It has probably affected all crops that are not irrigated.

Although the dry weather has eliminated the problems associated with most types of fungal pathogens, it has created a new set of problems for producers of both fruit and vegetables.

Vegetables

The following problems have been diagnosed recently around the state. Growers need to be cautious about trying to solve drought-related problems with a fungicide spray.

Pumpkin

Yellowing/death of oldest leaves. Some defoliation is due to drought while additional defoliation could result from powdery mildew and downy mildew infection. Sprays will only help control the mildews.

Premature ripening. This is a major problem this season. Most fruit rot (black rot) appears after ripening and the long period between now and Halloween (when most pumpkins are used) could cause problems. Growers should continue fungicide applications through September and take precautions to prevent injury (insect and mechanical) to the fruit since this is where most infections start.

Tomato

Fruit cracking. Mature fruit are susceptible to cracking during rainfall after an extended drought. It may be worthwhile to harvest mature fruit (green as well as ripe) before a rainfall.

Tomato And Pepper

Blossom end rot. A calcium problem caused by drought.

Tomato, Eggplant, Melons

Sun scald. Again, a drought-related problem caused by a lack of foliage or excessive wilting.

Melons, Carrots, Other Crops

High populations of two-spotted spider mites cause browning or bronzing of foliage and loss of plant vigor. Mites thrive in hot, dry weather and populations will build up rapidly if not controlled.

The current weather conditions do not favor development of late blight. However, it is still recommended that a 14-day spray schedule be maintained on growing fields until cool, moist conditions occur.

Green tissue is susceptible to infection under favorable conditions and it is likely that inoculum is present in some fields. Many tomato plantings have been completely harvested at this point in the season and it is suggested that you destroy these plants to prevent them from becoming a source of inoculum that could spread to other fields. Tomatoes that are still being harvested may need sprays applied at 7-10 day intervals to control anthracnose.

This could be a good year for those farmers who successfully raised a pumpkin crop. I have talked with people who report that 75-80 percent of the pumpkins in extreme southeast Pennsylvania have been lost to the drought. I would expect most East Coast farmers are having similar problems with their crops because the drought has been widespread.

I also read a recent report from Ohio reporting a bad year there, too. Planting was delayed by a wet spring followed by heavy pressure from spotted cucumber beetles, powdery mildew, downy mildew, and pumpkin anthracnose.

Finally, hot weather in July and August reduced fruit set. We hope that prices will be high enough to make up for any crop reductions caused by our weather.

Fruit

The hot, dry conditions of this summer will most likely have an effect on apple fruit quality and maturity this fall. Although there was some rain in Lancaster county over the weekend, the total amount was generally low and at this point the drought has already affected the crop.

Some early maturing cultivars have shown symptoms of heat breakdown — brown, water-soaked areas appearing just below the skin of the fruit within the state. The are other symptoms of drought stress that we are likely to observe in the coming weeks.

The first is premature fruit drop. Dry conditions tend to increase the incidence of this event and there have been reports of early drop in Golden Delicious in West Virginia already. The drought causes fruit to stop growing earlier than normal, and as a result, the abscission zone is forming early. Drought-stressed trees respond poorly to "stop-drop" sprays and, thus, there isn't much that can be done to prevent this fruit loss.

Another effect of the dry conditions will probably be smaller than normal fruit. As I just mentioned, the fruit stopped growing earlier this year and even if we receive a heavy rain now the fruit will still not reach normal size. A heavy rain could even cause further damage by causing susceptible varieties to split. The recent cooling trend should help to increase fruit color in the field. The dry conditions up to now would have also tended to reduce fruit color.

Finally, drought-stressed fruit tend to have poor storage quality. Monitor stored fruit closely for signs of deterioration. You may possibly want to minimize the amount of fruit you store if quality seems especially poor at harvest. Again, there isn't much that can be done to correct this situation.

There are also several reported effects of drought on the trees themselves. It has been observed that stressed trees often have a heavy bloom the following year and you may need to adjust your thinning practices accordingly. The trees enter winter in a somewhat weakened condition and you will need to manage them carefully to return them to normal levels of vigor.

A heavy rain can also be detrimental to trees after a prolonged stress. Trees may resume growth and have even been observed to flower after receiving water which will make them more susceptible to winter injury as well as reduce the crop for next year.

Although the apple crop this year will probably be less than ideal, a few timely rains would likely result in a satisfactory crop. The sunny, dry weather during peach harvest generally resulted in a high quality crop through most of the season which should help growers recover from last year's crop loss.

As a farmer I'm sure you're waiting for that ideal year with timely rainfall and ideal weather which would result in a bumper crop of high quality fruit. Perhaps next year . . .

Conservation Reserve Program Opens

WASHINGTON, D.C. — U.S. Agriculture Secretary Dan Glickman announced that between Sept. 11-22, eligible persons will be able to submit bids for the 13th Conservation Reserve Program (CRP) sign-up.

Land accepted into the CRP will meet higher environmental and conservation criteria to continue efforts to halt soil erosion, improve water quality, encourage tree planting, and benefit wildlife.

"USDA can only accept about 651,000 acres into the CRP because this was the amount contract holders withdrew under the 'early out' opportunity announced May 5," Glickman said. "Because of the relatively small acreage, we have modified our bidding and enrollment process to ensure that only the most environmentally sensitive lands are accepted. Also, we have made the bidding process more understandable for bidders which will help them and us enroll the best land."

Bidders have the option to request a CRP contract effective beginning either with the 1996 or 1997 crop year. Annual rental payments for approved CRP contract will be made to eligible farm owners or operators who convert eligible cropland to permanent cover. These payments will be limited to $50,000 per "person" per year. In addition to the rental payment, the Commodity Credit Corporation (CCC) may pay up to 50 percent of the cost of establishing a permanent cover.

During sign-up, each applicant will be informed of the amount of the "bid cap" for the acreage which is being offered for CRP enrollment. The bid cap is the maximum rental rate CCC is willing to pay to enroll specific acreage in the CRP. In previous signups, applicants were not aware of the amount of the bid cap before submitting a bid.

The formula and supporting information used in calculating the bid cap will be publicly available. In previous signups, the public was not informed of the manner in which bid caps were calculated.

Applicants may offer two different bid types: environmental priority bids and standard bids. Environmental priority bids are for acreage to be devoted to field windbreaks, shelterbelts, grass waterways, shallow water areas for wildlife, filter strips, and riparian buffers. Acreage devoted to any other practice will be a standard bid.

All bids will be evaluated based on anticipated environmental benefits relative to cost. Environmental priority bids will receive the highest possible environmental benefits ranking.

Farm Bureau Convention To Feature Long Island Tours

MELVILLE, N.Y. — When hundreds of farmers from all across the state come to Long Island for the annual convention of the state's leading farm and rural advocacy group, they will have a chance to visit agricultural operations that are neighbors to the millions of non-farmers in New York City and on Long Island.

Those attending the first Farm Bureau convention on Long Island will be able to see unique operations such as duck farms, greenhouses and nurseries, and farm wineries.

Scheduled for December 4-7, at the Melville Marriott, the annual meeting of the 25,000-member New York Farm Bureau, contains everything from the setting of the organization's legislative agenda to tours, entertainment, interesting speakers, awards ceremonies, and fine food.

Summer Sizzler At Haven Woods

GROVE CITY (Mercer Co.) — Even with the mercury climbing into the upper 90s more than 250 cattlemen from four states poured into Bob McQuiston's Haven Woods Farms to get the latest scoop on improving herd stock and operations.

Haven Woods Farms hosted the Pennsylvania Simmental Association Field Day recently. Events included a fitting and clipping demonstration by Dale Rains, a junior show competition, nutrition seminars, and a baleage wrapping demonstration.

On hand to explain the tricks and tips of using the ASA Herd Handler computerized herd management system was the ASA's Linda Kessler from the ASA home office in Bozeman, Mont. Kessler told how the ASA computer herd management system could help improve farm operations management.

Dr. Todd Van Dyke (VMD) provided an embryo transplant demonstration. First the embryo was thawed and placed under a microscope for visitors to observe while Van Dyke explained the mechanics of the transplant procedure. Then it was off to the barn, where the visitors were able to observe while the embryo was implanted in a heifer.

Distinguished guests included Penn State Professor of dairy and animal science Dr. Lowell Wilson and George R. Greggs, regional director with the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture. "Pennsylvania produces only 25 percent of the beef that Pennsylvanians consume, so there's plenty of room for growth," Wilson said.

Gregg said that at present, Simmental beef accounts for 20 percent of the Pennsylvania beef market, a market which is 16.6 percent of Pennsylvania's gross receipts.

Visitors to the Field Day were also able to inspect Haven Woods Farms new all-steel construction barn and machinery shed. The barn is a three-sided design with an innovative flexible penning system designed for maximum flexibility of stall configurations and ease of access for feeding and stall cleaning.

The machinery shed is also a 3-sided design with the last bay of the building fitted out as a farm maintenance shop complete with full insulation, sliding doors, and ample light and electric service.

REPRODUCTIVE MANAGEMENT FOR SEASONAL DAIRYING

Michael L. O'Connor
Penn State University

Seasonal dairying has received some interest during the last few years. This interest coincides with the increased use of pasture.

Much has been written about the advantages and disadvantages of this method of dairy farming and whether a fall or spring calving season is most economical.

A major factor in achieving success with seasonal dairying is effective reproductive management. Here are some of the challenges in the area of reproductive management:

- Maintain a 12-month calving interval
- Be prepared to cull cows that are not pregnant to services within the "breeding window," and perhaps purchase of cows if needed
- Develop a program so that heifers calve within the seasonal system
- Managing a large group of cows and heifers calving over a short period of time .
- Effectively manage dry cows in order to minimize the incidence of calving and postpartum problems such as dystocia, retained placenta, uterine infections, milk fever and ketosis which can significantly delay the onset of estrous cycles
- Insure that cows calve with optimum body condition and maintain adequate condition during early lactation so that they commence cycling early and can be inseminated by 60 days with a high probability of success
- Be aware that with a spring calving season there may be some years when the feeding season will occur during periods of high temperatures and humidity as occurred this year. Such environmental conditions reduce reproductive performance and extend the calving interval.
- Be prepared to conduct an intensive, routine heat detection and artificial insemination program during the defined breeding season
- Transition from a traditional year round calving program to seasonal dairying may take two or more years until all the cows are calving uniformally during a specific interval.

Several reproductive management systems can be applied to a seasonal breeding situation:

1. The conventional method of visual observation can be effective if dedicated time is spent at least three times daily on a routine basis observing the herd for estrous behavior. Estrous detection aids can be effective toward improving the efficiency of heat detection. Properly marking tailheads with crayon or paint has been used effectively on some farms. If this system is to be used there must be a management commitment to continue it on a daily basis. Cows must be permitted to interact most of the time, day and night. Restraint facilities such as self-locking, fence-line head gates are essential to making this a labor efficient practice. However, cattle could be marked when being milked. Tailheads must be examined and marked daily, including remarking smeared, partially rubbed off, or faded markings. Only those cows where the markings are completely removed should be inseminated. There have been complaints of false positives. To minimize false positives, experienced inseminations and herd managers who have used the system effectively insist that marking tailheads must be a daily activity. Proper interpretation of altered markings, partial vs. completely removed, is critical. Only cows with markings completely removed should be inseminated.

Newer electronic devices such as pedometers or mount detectors are available. Some systems are more accurate than others and they are costly. For someone making the transition to seasonal dairying the initial cost may be prohibitive. If interested in a heat detection system make sure it fits into your operation, visit other farms using the system and ask for controlled data or its effectiveness.

Remember the goal is to achieve a high pregnancy rate over a short period of time. Pregnancy rate = heat detection rate X conception rate. The heat detection rate must be high, greater than 80 percent, if the seasonal breeding program is to be successful.

2. Several estrous synchronization programs using prostaglandin (PG) have been developed and used successfully. The three major programs are the 7-day, commonly referred to as the Monday morning program; the original 11-day two injection program and the target breeding program. There are advantages and limitations to each but all could be used in a seasonal breeding situation.

The targeted breeding program is the newer program where cows are administered PG prior to the end of the voluntary waiting period (VWP). The purpose of this treatment is to set up the cow into a stage of the cycle, whereby she will more likely respond to the first controlled breeding shot of PG. The setup shot is also termed the priming or staging shot. Generally cows are not inseminated if they exhibit heat following this initial injection. Once a VWP is established for the herd (55-60 days), cows are listed chronologically according to calving dates. Those cows that are within 14 days of the end of the VWP are administered the setup shot. Fourteen days later the same cows receive the first breeding injection of PG and are observed frequently for standing behavior beginning on the second through the 7th day and inseminated accordingly. Heat detection aids can be used to improve the chance of detecting estrus. Cows that are not inseminated are reinjected fourteen days after the initial breeding injection and observed for estrus and inseminated if observed in heat. This regime is continued a third time and if the cows do not exhibit heat they are bred by appointment at 72 and 96 hours or again if they exhibit heat. As cows return to heat after either of the first two inseminations they are rebred immediately.

Throughout this short breeding period heat detection must receive high priority not only to detect heat after PG injections but also the return heats. Success depends upon the heat detection rate and conception rate following each PG injection. Cows calving early in the calving season have more opportunities to be inseminated before the end of the optimum breeding period compared to cows calving late. However, the objective is to obtain a high pregnancy rate on the initial estrous period for all cows. Using a 80 percent heat detection rate on the initial estrous periods and return heats and 50 percent conception rate on each cycle through the program and repeat breedings, the overall pregnancy rate should be between 75-80 percent by 90 days. This would be a good response. However, 20 to 25 percent of the herd would not be pregnant within the breeding window to calve at 12 months. For various reasons the manager may wish to continue breeding cows beyond the optimum breeding window but one must realize that calving will be delayed and it will be a major challenge to rebreed the cows in a timely manner during the next lactation.

Testimonials from beef producers using artificial insemination who consistently obtain pregnancy rates of 90 percent over a short breeding season reaffirm the importance of frequent and routine heat detection. The key is not only to detect the initial estrous periods but also achieve a very high rate of detection and conception for the return estrous periods. When using an early voluntary waiting period with high producing dairy cattle these high pregnancy rates may not be achieved.

Chain Selection Linked To Intended Use

NEW HOLLAND (Lancaster Co.)—Traction, log, binder, and tow chains all serve a big role in any farm operation. That's why it's important for farmers to know the capabilities and load limitations of different chains and their proper uses on the farm.

When using these chains around the farm, or when purchasing new chain, farmers should be aware of the "working load limit," according to Jared Wills, product and pricing analyst for New Holland Parts and Service Operations.

"The working load limit refers to the maximum load in pounds a chain should be made to endure when the load is uniformly applied to direct tension to a straight length of chain," he said. "Manufacturers do not accept any liability for damages that may result from chain used in excess of the working load limit."

Depending on the type of chain, its trade size, diameter, length and width, working load limits can range from 800 to 12,000 pounds. Wills said that knowing the limitations of the specific chain being used can not only save time and money, but injuries too.

"When chains are used above their limitations and manufacturer's advice, they can sometimes break and cause personal injury," Wills said. "Therefore, farmers should be aware of these terms and the proper uses of chain before using them under extreme conditions."

Wills strongly advises farmers to take caution when using chain attachments. Farmers should select attachments, such as hooks or rings, and chain of the same type, grade and size that are recommended for use.

Some common abuses that will lessen the load the chain will withstand include:

•Temperatures in excess of 800°F will permanently reduce the working load limit of the chain

•Twisting or knotting of the chain

•Disfugurement

•Deterioration of the chain by strain, usage, weathering, corrosion or lapse of time

•Acceleration in the application rate of the load, or jerking

•Variation in the angle of the load to some sharper angle resulting from the configuration or structure of the material constituting the load

•Use for a purpose other than that for which the particular type of chain was intended

•Use to carry an excess load.

Wills recommends New Holland's complete line from Peerless Chain and lists the following types, characteristics, and applications.

•Proof Coil chain serves as the lowest rated welded chain. Commonly used as gate chain, barrier chain and various light duty general purpose towing, Proof Coil also works for log pulling applicaitons around the farm.

•High Test is made from a higher grade of low-carbon steel and has a higher working load limit than Proof Coil. For instance, the working load of 3/8 inch High Test is 5,400 pounds, while 3/8 inch Proof Coil is 2,650 pounds.

Depending on the type of chain, its size, diameter, length and width, working load limits can range from 800 to 12,000 pounds. That's why it's important to match the proper chain to its application.

•Transport Chain is heat treated, giving it an even higher working load limit than High Test. The working load limit of 3/8 inch Transport is 6,600 pounds, making it the chain of choice for over-the-road binding applications. Transport Chain is not to be used for overhead lifting.

•Alloy Chain is an entirely new product being offered by New Holland. The working load limit of 3/8 inch Alloy is 7,100 pounds and remains the only grade of chain approved by OSHA for overhead lifting applications.

In addition to log, tow and binder chain, Wills says there also exists a variety of traction chains designed for many purposes and applications around the farm:

•Max-Trac™ is designed for use with snow blowers and garden tractors. Many sizes come in two- and four-link spacing which means some of the sets have a cross chain every two links of the side chain, the others every four. Two link spacing provides the best traction.

•Single truck, bus, and RV chains fit everything from a pick-up truck through a large farm truck. These chains come with two different types of cross chain. The 2200 series includes a regular twist hardened cross chain. The 1800 series utilizes the same cross chain with lugs welded to the cross chain in the form of a "V" which provides improved traction.

•Used for dual tires, dual triple truck chains use three-side chains, in which the middle-side chain runs between the two tires.

•Dual and wide base traction chains fit many of the larger, 4-wheel drive type pickup tires. They are similar in design to regular highway service single chains, except are designed specifically for larger tires.

•Assembled with heavy duty regular twist hardened cross chain, industrial/construction chain works on many types of industrial equipment. It's assembled with heavy-duty regular twist hardened cross chain and comes in sizes to fit a variety of industrial equipment.

•Duo-Trac tractor chains run in a H-type pattern so the cross members ride above the tractor tire lugs, which gives a steady, smooth ride, and good traction. A special design prevents the chain from excessive rolling and tightening on deep threaded tires.

•Hi-Way type tractor chains work similar to single truck chains, only with much heavier cross and side chain. These chains operate best on the highway or on hard, frozen surfaces.

•Double Ring tractor chains feature two rings welded together through two rings welded together to create the cross chain. This type of chain is excellent for traction in mud or snow, on or off the road.

Company Reports Top Sales

ATLANTA, Ga. — Wilfred Boyle, director, Massey Ferguson North America operations, reported industry results for 1994 confirm Massey Ferguson continues its record-setting role.

Boyle said, "This is the 32nd consecutive year the company has achieved this leadership position, and preliminary figures for last year show Massey Ferguson not only maintained its lead in world tractor sales, but also outstripped its nearest rival by over 45 percent."

Company 1994 sales figures (excluding China and the former Soviet states) show the decline in world tractor sales over recent years has been halted, giving the industry its best year since 1991.

Massey Ferguson has maintained sales leadership position for the last 32 consecutive years. Shown is a partial lineup of Massey Ferguson tractors sold in North America.

Overall, the world market for tractors was six percent higher than in 1993, rising to a total of more than 552,000 units.

Ciba Continues Atrazine, Simazine Support

GREENSBORO, N.C. — Ciba Crop Protection has not altered its commitment to support atrazine and simazine in the Environmental Protection Agency's (EPA) special review of triazine herbicides as a result of DuPont Agricultural Products' voluntary phaseout of cyanazine.

That assurance came from Ciba Agricultural Group President Emilio J. Bontempo.

DuPont and the EPA announced Aug. 2 that the maximum active ingredient use rate of cyanazine will be reduced incrementally beginning in 1997. DuPont announced that it will stop selling the herbicide in 1999, and that all use in the U.S. will stop at the end of 2002.

"We believe that science supports continued use of atrazine and simazine and that neither product poses unreasonable adverse effects to humans or to the enviroment," Bontempo said. "These products have been used safely for almost 40 years, and the benefits they bring in terms of weed control and soil conservation are unmatched by any other product."

Bontempo said, "During the ongoing EPA special review, atrazine and simazine have received overwhelming support from the agricultural community. Ciba is committed to backing these products throughout the remainder of the review process."

Bontempo said Ciba and farmers already have taken steps to minimize the potential for atrazine to impact water quality. Ciba implemented EPA-approved voluntary atrazine label changes in 1991 and 1993 to increase ground and surface water protection by requiring setbacks between water supplies and sites where atrazine is mixed, loaded or applied. The label changes also reduced atrazine use rates.

"The label changes added to product stewardship measures growers had adopted," Bontempo said. "Overall, atrazine use on corn and sorghum has declined nearly 40 percent over the last 10 years. The actual average use rate now is 1.1 pounds of atrazine per acre."

Bontempo said that Ciba supports best management practices to help growers prevent or minimize movement of crop protection products into water sources, and continues to develop long-range water quality protection strategies for atrazine and simazine.

In regard to the special review of atrazine and simazine, the EPA says it is reviewing more than 81,000 comments received in response to the notice initiating the review. Most of the comments were from private citizens. The agency also is studying the 14,000 pages of data submitted by Ciba in support of atrazine and simazine, and is consulting with farm groups, scientists, and other experts to develop a complete safety and benefits assessment of atrazine and simazine.

American Soybean Industry Council Forms

ST. LOUIS, Mo. — ASA farmer leaders and industry representatives from throughout the nation launched the concept of a new American Soybean Industry Council (ASIC) at Hilton Head, South Carolina.

ASA President John Long said, "The council will be inclusive of all sectors of the soybean industry working towards one common goal: to increase the profitability of soybean production and the soybean industry."

ASA Chairman of the Board John McClendon said, "The four main objectives will be to act as a forum for the soybean industry to develop public policy initiatives; work with governments and non-governmental organizations to anticipate and provide for acceptance of new technologies and markets; unify the soybean industry to strengthen the voice of soybean producers and corporate members, and to support components of the soybean vision."

Industry representatives and farmer leaders volunteered to serve on a committee to further define the structure and mechanics of the council for the first formalized meeting Dec. 1 in St. Louis. The volunteers come from different sectors of the soybean industry: seed, chemical, fertilizer, financial, processors, equipment, end-users, production, marketing and transportation.

They are assembling a list of prioritized issues for the council to address. All companies are encouraged to provide the committee with problems they endure and opportunities the soybean industry should address. Issues should be sent through ASA to the attention of the ASIC and received by Oct. 2.

For more information, contact John McClendon, ASA Chairman, John Long, ASA President, or Bob Callanan, Communications Director, American Soybean Association, 540 Maryville Centre Drive, Suite 390, Saint Louis, MO 63141, (314) 576-1770, fax: (314) 576-2786.

Fuel Economy, Servicing Ease For Tractor Line

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The production of Zetor tractors began in the town of Brno, Czechoslovakia in 1947. Since then, more than 670,000 Zetor tractors have been manufactured and sold in some 90 countries around the world. Nearly 40,000 tractors are now being produced on a yearly basis by 21,000 factory workers.

No "bells or whistles" are to be found in Zetor tractors. Zetor features fuel economy, built-in weight, and ease in servicing, not found in many tractors sold in the U.S. Reliability is designed into a Zetor tractor. Zetor manufactures its own diesel injection pumps, starters, and alternators. Independent power take off, power steering, and minimum 10-speed transmission are all standard equipment features.

One of the most important features on any Zetor tractor is the easy entry, roomy, comfortable operator's platform. The iso-mounted platform is up out of the dust and dirt and can be entered from either the right or left side of the tractor.

Adams Farm Bureau To Meet

CASHTOWN (Adams Co.) — The 45th annual meeting of the Adams County Farm Bureau will be held on Thursday, Sept. 28, at the Cashtown Community Fire Hall at 6:30 p.m. with a commodity reception, followed by a family-style dinner at 7 p.m.

Guest speaker will be board member Larry Feeser, who is also a member of the Irishtown Volunteer Fire Company. Feeser attended a FARMMEDIC course (a nationally recognized program that trains firefighters about farm accidents) presented at the Alfred State College, New York, during Easter of this year.

The Adams County Farm Bureau sponsored Feeser to attend the course to enable him to return to the county as an instructor. Once he received his diploma in April, he was authorized to educate farmers to the risks and how to handle farm accident situations. Feeser will also be conducting workshops to train firefighters to respond to farm accidents.

"Basically, agriculture is the most dangerous industry," Feeser said. "I have the utmost respect for farm machinery and the dangers of the farm." During the course of the workshop, he was trained to handle farm accidents and also to be an instructor and train others within the county, including the membership of ACFB, on the risks of farm accidents and also how to handle situations. The course taught the students how to pass on safety information to farmers as well as to firefighters. Firefighter training for the major part has been for auto accidents and fires. Firefighters without the FARMMEDIC training do not know how to respond to farm accidents.

He learned about farm rescues and recoveries from machinery, silos, grain bins, downed power lines, and the perspective of emergency medical services. Feeser is also the only FARMMEDIC instructor in southern Pennsylvania. A second part of Feeser's job is educating farmers about hazards on the farm and educating them to understand the dangers so they can prevent accidents.

President Ed Wilkinson of the ACFB reported, "Farmers can benefit from the course because often another farmer or a person working in agriculture is first on the scene. They need to learn what to do or not to do." Workshops will be conducted in September, October, and November. For further information, contact Larry Feeser, New Oxford, or President Ed Wilkinson, Aspers.

Following the guest speaker, President Wilkinson will present the Adams County Farm Bureau Outstanding Service to Agriculture Award to Tom Piper, county extension agent, for his commitment and loyalty through the years to agriculture within the county. Piper will also be submitted to Pennsylvania Farm Bureau as a nominee for the state level prestigious award.

All members in attendance will vote on policies presented by the Policy Development Committee. Policies are formulated into resolutions and are conveyed to the state organization at the PFB convention held in November. "Policy development is one of the most important facets of the PFB," according to PFB Vice President Guy Donaldson, Orrtanna, who is also chairperson of the state-wide policy development committee. "Most ACFB members think policy development is a once-a-year activity that flourishes just before annual meetings. But in reality, it's an organized year-round program that's ongoing in every county bureau."

According to ACFB President Ed Wilkinson, "PFB is the 8th largest farm lobbying organization within the commonwealth of Penn-sylvania. By submitting resolutions to the statewide bureau, our state and national legislators are introduced to the concerns and hardships of the farming community. This is grassroots America."

Reservations are needed by Sept. 21. For more information, contact President Ed Wilkinson, (717) 677-4477.

Fly-In Comes At Strategic Time

DENVER, Colo. — A great deal is at stake as Farmers Union members head to Washington, D.C. Sept. 17-20 for National Farmers Union's (NFU) annual legislative fly-in. About 300 members from throughout the nation are expected to attend.

"NFU's fly-in will be held at a strategic time as Congress commences debate on 1995 farm bill legislation," said NFU President Leland Swenson.

The National Farmers Union, a general farm organization representing nearly 300,000 family farmers and ranchers nationwide, has already taken a position on the primary pieces of farm bill legislation that will be considered by Congress. NFU opposes the Freedom to Farm Act of 1995 introduced by House Agriculture Committee Chairman Pat Roberts, calling it nothing more than a welfare scheme designed to phase out federal farm programs. Instead, NFU has developed a plan that would enable farmers to get their income form the market rather than from the government.

Fly-in participants will be urging members of Congress to adopt a farm bill plan that is simple, inexpensive, flexible and provides economic stability. Farmers Union says that if farm programs are targeted to benefit the family farm operation, the savings mandated by Congress in the agriculture budget can be achieved.

Farm programs currently comprise only 16 percent of the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) budget and the USDA budget is only 4 percent of the total federal spending. Additional cuts in farm programs of $12-17 billion over the next seven years have been proposed.

Farmers Union members attending the Washington, D.C. event say they don't want government handouts. They want to receive a better price for the products they produce. In fact, between 1980 and 1992, the price of wheat fell 27 percent, corn prices dropped 44 percent, and the price farmers received for soybeans declined 40 percent. During this same time, the price of a combine increased 73 percent, and the cost of diesel fuel rose 34 percent.

"The NFU plan, like a plan soon to be introduced in the Senate, proposes raising the per-bushel amount of loans farmers get from the government while waiting for the market to go up before they sell their commodities," said Swenson. "And, I emphasize that this is a loan that will be paid back with interest when the crop is sold for a higher price."

The NFU plan gets its savings from the elimination of government deficiency payments to producers.

"Historically, market prices have been supported by loan rates, so raising loan rates will enable producers to get their incomes in the market not from a government check," said Swenson.

NFU fly-in participants will be updated on farm bill and other legislation affecting agriculture Sept. 17. The group is expected to be briefed by members of Congress and the Clinton administration.

Apple Marketing Board Changes Made

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Agricultural Secretary Charles C. Brosius has announced one new appointment and three reappointments to the Pennsylvania Apple Marketing Program's board of directors.

"We look forward to their working together to promote Pennsylvania's apple industry in domestic and international markets," Brosius said.

The apple marketing program board consists of nine growers nominated by other producers in the industry and the Secretary of Agriculture's designee.

The new board member is Alan C. Johnson of West Chester, Chester County. His term expires in June of 1996.

Reappointed board members include David L. Benner of Fairfield, Adams County; Richard A. Keim of Birdsboro, Berks County; and Larry W. Wright of Schellsburg, Bedford County. Each was reappointed to a term expiring in June of 1998.

In addition to the new and reappointed board members, the board includes the following: Kay E. Hollabaugh, Biglerville, Adams County; Gail McPherson, New Park, York County; Gordon Post, North East, Erie County; John Rice, Gardners, Adams County; and H. Lee Showalter, Chambersburg, Franklin County.

Brosius has selected Ana Maria DiStefano, director of the department's Bureau of Market Development, as his designee to the board. Brenda Beleski Briggs is director of the Apple Marketing Program, and Michael Varner of the Bureau of Market Development serves as the department's liaison to the Apple Marketing Program.

Frozen silage? No problem!

For frozen silage and hard-packed haylage, the Patz cutter-and-claw gathering chain outperforms augers. This time-proven chain with its chain-saw cutting action cuts out frozen silage aggressively. Shouldn't your next unloader have a gathering chain?

Consider these Model RD-820 Unloader features:

RING-DRIVE: With the roller-chain ring drive, only one motor powers the machine.
AUTOMATIC LOWERING OPTION: A winch lowers the RD-820 automatically after each complete revolution.
POWER CUTTER: Spring tension keeps high-speed, self-sharpening blades tight to the silo wall to shave it clean.
TORQUE LIMITER: Ratchet-pin design protects the ring and drive system while working through conditions.
Affordable financing directly from Patz.

THINK CONCRETE!!

When planning your storage for high-moisture shelled corn. The light-colored concrete walls protect your valuable grain from the heat like we experienced this summer.

Listen to what these farmers from Virginia say about their switch to a poured concrete silo for their corn storage:

"Even during the hottest summer in our memory, the shelled corn from our poured concrete silo has kept its bright yellow color and has not heated.

We have the best Hi-Moisture shelled corn ever."
Signed: Keith Wilson, Paul Wilson, Gerald Garber; Cave View Farms, Inc., Weyers Cave Va.

"The more you know about silos, the better we look."

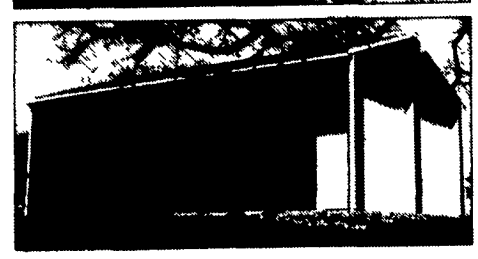
Side with Alumax ALU-TUFF Steel



When you put up a building, you expect it to be attractive and to last. A building constructed with ALU-TUFF will meet those expectations. That's because ALU-TUFF is made using top-quality materials, super-tough protective coatings, and a unique rib design that's both functional and attractive.

Years from now when other buildings are starting to show their age, your building will still look good.

- A STRONG PROFILE High 3/4-inch ribs on nine-inch centers give ALU-TUFF exceptionally high spanning properties for its weight and thickness, while stiffening ribs in flat areas prevent rippling.
- MADE TO LAST To keep Alu-Tuff working hard and looking good for years to come, we protect it with an oven-cured system of four different coatings.
- A GREAT LOOKING PANEL You don't have to sacrifice good looks to get a tough steel panel.
- MORE QUALITY FEATURES Each ALU-TUFF sheet is 38 inches wide to provide 36-inch coverage. That's wide enough to minimize the number of side laps, yet narrow enough to be easy to handle.

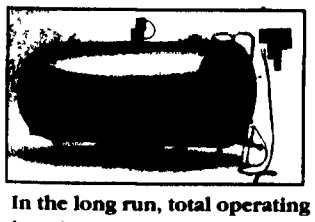
MUELLER DAIRY FARM EQUIPMENT

Scroll-Compressor Technology

New in 1994



You may pay less for some dairy farm equipment... but it can cost you more!

Equipment costs are not the only cost of cooling milk

In the long run, total operating costs of a Mueller milk-cooling system are generally substantially less than those of "bargain-brand" milk-cooling equipment.

Example	Mueller	Competition
Cost of equipment	$31,000	$28,000
Cost of electricity @ .08 kW for 12,000 lbs milk/day for 10 years	$17,550	$22,850
Total operating cost for ten years	$48,550	$50,850
Savings	$ 2,300

Cut stall clean-out time by 50% with a Millcreek Compact Spreader.
"The spreading efficiency sure outweighs the price. This is a wonderful machine. I couldn't be more pleased."
EARL SINKS - Brock, Texas
Say "Good-Bye" to back-breaking manure handling and cut stall clean-out time in half. Hook an affordable Millcreek Compact Spreader to your 10 hp garden tractor, take it right to the stall for easy loading. No more wheelbarrow.
Millcreek Spreaders last and last
Since spreaders are our specialty, we put more into each one. For example our 20-year guaranteed floor will never rust or rot. Positive chain drive provides excellent spreading action. And tough steel construction holds up to rugged farm use. Seven sizes, for 1-horse barns to 50-horse stables. PTO and ground drive models available.

Anything Less Isn't Good Enough

If livestock is your business, Eby Gooseneck Trailers include these features to protect the livestock you transport:

- Durable all-aluminum construction with less weight for more payload
- Axles, wheels, tires and brakes that are designed to carry the weight the trailer will hold
- Gates and doors designed for easy loading/unloading
- Proven post and slat design to control airflow and easily close up for winter conditions
- Aerodynamic design to improve fuel economy

Eby Gooseneck Trailers are available in lengths from 12 to 32 feet with a choice of widths and inside heights. We offer every custom option, including stainless steel front end for great looks.

Whatever kind of livestock you transport, you can rely on EBY products to do the job right.

Eby custom-builds bodies and trailers for all types of livestock, grain and farm commodities.

Frederick Extension Has New Phone Number

FREDERICK, Md.—The University of Maryland Cooperative Extension Service, Frederick County Office can now be reached by calling (301) 694-1594.

This single number replaces the multiple numbers that were used to reach different departments within the Extension Service. The old numbers for the Home and Garden, 4-H, and Home Economics should no longer be used.

"It should be emphasized that some of the old numbers have been assigned to people within the office that may not have anything to do with the original department phone number," said Stanley Fultz, dairy science extension agent and equipment committee chairman for the extension office.

When a call is answered, an automated attendant will give the caller a menu in which to choose the desired department. After choosing the department, a second menu will give a choice of people and telephone extension numbers. If the caller knows the extension number of the person they are trying to reach, they may enter the 4-digit number at any time and the call will go to that person.

The new system also has voice mail. This will allow clients to call at any time and leave a message, ask a question, or register for a program.

"You'll never get a busy signal. With the old system, sometimes a client had to try for hours to get a line into the building. This new system will allow us to better serve the people of Frederick County," said Fultz.

Central Pa. Championship Show Held

GAIL STROCK
Mifflin Co. Correspondent

HUNTINGDON (Huntingdon Co.) — After coming close several times, Naomi Speer's My-Favorite Vanguard Kandi won grand champion of the Central Pennsylvania Championship Show in Huntingdon. Held at the Huntingdon Fairgrounds, Speer said the win meant a lot to her.

"She's my first 94-point cow. She's generations down from the first cow my father gave me," Speer said. "She didn't do well when she was young and gets better the older she gets." The aged cow has two daughters that Speer hopes will follow suit in the show ring. My-Favorite Vanguard Kandi was also selected the best bred and owned animal of the show.

Judge Gary Derr of Derrwyn Holsteins in New Windsor, Md., said he enjoyed working with an outstanding group of people and cows. He gave reserve grand champion honors to Globe-Run Jethro Violet owned by R. C. Norris and Globe Run Farm. He described this cow as an extremely easy win in her 4-year-old class and said she easily won the class's best udder award.

Rebecca Kelly fared well in the junior exhibitor show. Her 5-year-old, Spring-Lane Melvin Bret, was selected grand champion by a junior exhibitor and received the best bred and owned award. Reserve grand champion by a junior exhibitor went to the second place 5-year-old, Globe-Run Top-Gun Oslo, owned by Lory Ann Baker.

In the junior heifer show, junior champion for all exhibitors, including youth, went to Troy Young and his spring yearling, JCY Broker Rachel - ET. Amanda Cessna earned reserve junior champion with her winter calf, Brush-Creek-Vu Charles Kala.

John A. and Alice L. Foster of Globe Run Farm received the premier breeder and exhibitor awards.

G. Sheldon Peachey of Belleville sold the high cow at Mifflin County's Summer Classic sale held in August at the Mifflin County Youth Park. Blessed-Acres Mascot Patches brought $3,300 in a final bid placed by Bruce Snider of Imler, Pennsylvania.

By the end of the evening, 50 lots sold for a sale total of $70,975 and an average sale price of $1,420.

Robert Peachey of Belleville bought the second highest cow, Y-Brookside Queen, for $2,600, consigned by Darvin and Loren Yoder of Belleville.

Kara Tussey of Huntingdon consigned the third highest cow. It was bought by Scott and Julieann Longenbach of North Hampton for $2,475.

Steven and Barbara Wilson of Port Royal sold Rose-Edge F P Marisa for $2,000 to Theodore and Patricia Miller of Pilesgrove, N.J.

Ken Rainey of the Pennsylvania Holstein Association complimented Paul Neer of the Mifflin County Holstein Club for his efforts in sale selections. He was pleased with the favorable support from local people in both buying and selling. Paul Neer stepped to the microphone before the sale to say that the animals parading the sale ring could be bought with confidence.

Prior to the sale, several items were auctioned off to benefit the Mifflin County Holstein Club, the Dairy Princess committee, and the Mifflin County 4-H Judging Team, including a Bonnie Mohr print which Danny Albright bought for $180. A chicken barbeque before the sale benefitted the Mifflin County 4-H Dairy Club.

State Junior Jersey Herd To NAILE

LIBERTY (Tioga Co.) — This fall, junior Jersey breeders will have the opportunity to take their cows down South to compete in the North American International Livestock Exposition (NAILE) in Louisville, Kentucky.

Animals will be selected from each class at the Pennsylvania Junior Dairy Show on September 25, by a committee made up of senior Jersey Associatio members and spearheaded by Debbie Moose. Owners of the selected animals will receive an invitation to be a part of the Pennsylvania herd as the animals are placed in each class, and will have to decide if their animals will be a part of the herd by the end of the show day. Approximately 15 animals will be selected.

The Pennsylvania association will handle trucking arrangements and will care for the animals while at the show. Melanie Dietrich is this year's head caretaker. Junior exhibitors will be expected to cover about half of the cost of the trip with the remaining funding coming from independent sponsors.

For more information about the trip to Louisville, contact Debbie Moose, 412-662-3924. Any contributions are welcome to help defray the cost of the trip to Louisville. Please send donations to David Norman at RR 1 Box 30, Liberty, PA 16930, or to Debbie Moose, Box 1000, West Middlesex Rd., Mercer, PA 16137.

The junior show is set for Saturday, November 4, 1995 and will be followed by the All American Banquet and Junior Fun Fest. Animals will remain on the premises for the open dairy show which is set for Monday, November 6.

While at the exposition center, junior Jersey enthusiasts will have the opportunity to see Jerseys from across the United States and Canada and meet fellow Jersey breeders from around the world. They will also be able to witness Pennsylvania Jersey Queen Joy Vance compete for the title of 1995 National Jersey Jug Queen at ceremonies during the weekend activities. The National Queen will preside over the National Jersey Jug Futurity competition to be held Sunday, November 5.

The trip, sponsored in part by the Pennsylvania Jersey Cattle Association, is an annual undertaking by the club and its members. "We've been doing this for over 20 years continuously," said David Norman, secretary of the association.

Besides having the opportunity to travel with the state herd to Louisville, Kentucky, the Pennsylvania Jersey Association is planning a pizza party and a Junior Jersey Association meeting for all Junior Jersey exhibitors on Sunday evening, September 23, at the Pennsylvania All American Dairy Show. Watch for signs with the time and room number as you check your animals in for the Junior Jersey Show.

The Show Report

Brothers Bob and Sam Lowe of Shermansdale teamed up to become two of the big winners during the Livestock Show at the Perry County Fair.

Bob and Sam captured both the grand and reserve grand champion titles during the market goat show.

The 4-H market goat champion was Doug Failor and the 4-H reserve champion spot was captured by Marijane Wright of Newport.

In the steer show, the top honor went to Grant Finkenbinder of Duncannon, who won the grand champion award with his 1,235-pound Limousin.

Kelly Lindgren of Duncannon took the reserve grand champion steer spot with her 1,135-pound crossbred Limousin-Angus animal.

The FFA champion honor for the steer show was won by Scott Byers, while Kristina Watson took the reserve champion FFA title.

The grand champion spot in the market hog show was won by Scott Byers of Liverpool with his three-way crossbred hog, a 235-pounder.

The reserve grand champion market hog spot went to Brad Gill of Newport, whose animal weighed in at 245 pounds.

In the 4-H market hog competition, the champion position was taken by Adam Shafer of Newport and Patrick Finkenbinder of Duncannon had the reserve champion.

Larry Arnold of Womelsdorf, who was the judge for the show, commented that he had a hard time placing the animals in several classes because they were all such fine quality hogs.

The market lamb show saw Amanda Nace of Liverpool take home the grand champion honor for her 104-pound Dorset. The reserve grand champion was exhibited by Rebecca Myers of Duncannon, whose animal was a 107-pound Suffolk.

Hope Roush of Liverpool had the reserve 4-H champion market lamb, while Marijane Wright had the reserve FFA market lamb.

Patrick Finkenbinder of Duncannon was the champion showman for the steers and the reserve champion showman was John Hines of Duncannon.

The champion hog showman was Brad Gill and the reserve champion was Drew McGuire of Duncannon.

The champion sheep showman title was won by Kristina Watson, with John Hines coming in as the reserve champion.

Kristina Watson also captured the reserve champion showman award for the market goats, while the champion showman title for those animals went to Sam Lowe.

Ag Secretary Gathers Info On Dry Weather

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Agriculture Secretary Charles C. Brosius announced that he has initiated an information-gathering process to determine the potential loss of crop due to the continuing dry weather.

"We are trying to determine which parts of the state are most adversely affected by the shortage of rain," Brosius said. "We recognize that there are farmers who are facing a major financial crisis because of lost crops."

Brosius said the results of the survey will be shared with Gov. Tom Ridge, who has asked that he be kept appraised of the economic impact the dry weather could have on the farm economy.

Brosius said the department will determine not only damage to crops but also the potential threat to livestock due to inadequate water supplies.

If it is determined that there is sufficient damage, Brosius will ask Gov. Ridge and Lt. Gov. Mark Schweiker to consider the need to request federal aid for affected areas.

As part of the information gathering process, Brosius said he will convene a meeting of USDA agencies, the major farm organizations, the Department of Environmental Protection (DEP) and the Pennsylvania Emergency Management Agency (PEMA).

"There has already been a significant loss of crops in some areas, and even a generous rainfall in the next few weeks will be too late for a lot of crops throughout the state," Brosius said.

There is a drought warning issued for 43 counties in central and eastern Pennsylvania, with a drought watch declared for the remainder of the state. The warning was issued by the DEP on Sept. 1 after an assessment of stream flows, precipitation, reservoir storage, groundwater levels, and soil moisture.

Field Day Sept. 23

TYRONE (Blair Co.) — An agricultural field day will be held on Saturday, Sept. 23 from 10 a.m. - noon at the Kenneth Fulcomer farm near Tyrone.

The topic is "Effects Of Compaction And Results Of Subsoiling Test Plots."

Discussion and demonstrations will be held at the corn comparison trial plots comparing continuously no-till plots with side-by-side subtilled plots.

Topics to be covered include compaction dynamics, measuring compaction, water infiltration, corn plant and root development, nutrient uptake, yield and demonstration of subsoiling equipment.

Cooperating farmers, FFA members, Penn State agronomists, PASA and ag chemical personnel will be on hand. The experiment was designed and carried out on two farms by the Tyrone Area FFA in cooperation with the producers.

At the same site, Tyrone Milling has set up an experimental field of corn planted in narrow rows. Representatives of Tyrone Milling and Helena Chemical will discuss inputs and results.

After the events at Fulcomers, participants are invited to visit the Nelson Sangrey farm nearby where similar plots were established.

The field day is cosponsored by the Pennsylvania Association for Sustainable Agriculture and Cooperative Extension.

Directions: The farm is off Rt. 550 between Warriors Mark and Tyrone. At the Helena Chemical buildings, turn onto SR 4023 and go approx. two miles to the plot. Look for signs.

For more information, call Bill Harshman, Tyrone Area HS FFA, (814) 684-4932. Raindate is Sept. 30.

CONSERVATION TILLAGE SYSTEMS

Whether you are concerned about SOIL COMPACTION or RESIDUE MANAGEMENT

DMI

ECOLOTIL TILLAGE SYSTEMS Solve Your Problems!!!

DMI's Patented Point Makes The Difference

ECOLOTIL SYSTEMS

DMI SYSTEM	Min. HP Required
3 Shank Ecolotil	80
5 Shank Ecolotil	130
527 Ecolotiger	130
530 Ecolotiger	170
730 Ecolotiger	250

Each of these machines can be equipped to meet your particular needs. Your choices include shank style, shank arrangement, coulters/ discs, rear levelers or point style.

Soil Compaction is a problem on every farm we've checked. Breaking up the compaction layer

1) decreases soil run-off in wet years, by permitting water to percolate into the subsoil

2) makes room for plant roots systems to seek and find moisture in dry years

CLAAS Forage Harvesters

The high quqlity of corn forage produced by the JAGUAR is derived from the CLAAS corn cracker. Two saw toothed rollers run at different speeds with 20% difference open up virtually every kernel and this means good quality silage which is easily digested. This makes for highest energy transfer for higher milk and meat yields.

The rollers are subject to wear and tear, so the CLAAS corn cracker features removable outer sleeves. The shafts, drive pulley and bearings are all reused, thus redeucing maintenance costs. Foreign bodies pass through thanks to a spring loaded mechanism. The 7.7" diameter of the corn cracker rollers is exceptionally large. The speed differential intensifies the grinding effect for effective opening of the kernels.

The degree of corn cracker intensity is adjustable to take account of differing dry matter content. This is done mechanically. An optional electrical adjustment is available.

Since the corn cracker stays on the machine, the changeover from corn to grass can always with a minimum of preparation. This is a help when grass and corn are being harvested at the same time.

The area around the corn cracker ahead of the cooling system is very large, enabling ease of access to parts you wouldn't otherwise be able to reach. For instance the accelerator of ejection chute.

MF DynaTorque™ engines feature an exclusive combustion system that tunes power and torque delivery to match the way you work
In Zone A, as engine speed drops under load, a rapid boost in torque keeps you going with less slowdown
Maximum torque is reached in Zone B to bring engine rpm back and get you through these tough conditions.
DynaTorque engines also let you easily start heavy loads at low engine rpm quickly bring them up to operating speed, and handle lighter loads at reduced engine speeds

Open-Top Mixers

Four notched augers mix fast--even square-baled dry alfalfa in limited amounts.

Self-aligning auger bearings mounted outside. Flanged auger tubes for easy removal.

Planetary gear reducers and roller chain reduction power the augers. Roller chains operate in enclosed oil bath.

On trailer and truck models, the discharge door and discharge augers are controlled hydraulically. Also, gravity discharge is available.

8 sizes from 190 to 575 cubic feet.

The NEW LEADER L3020

Heavy Duty LIME SPREADER

For more than 50 years, New Leader has aggressively met and exceeded market demand by producing the most dependable, adaptable and durable spreaders in the industry. The heavy-duty L-3020 spreader is a direct result of New Leader's unmatched experience in the agricultural equipment field.

Designed for high-volume applications of ag-lime and gypsum, the rugged and resilient L-3020 is also suitable for spreading fertilizer and hauling aggregate material. Equipped with an optional swinging rear endgate, the L-3020 can be quickly and efficiently converted into a controlled discharge, no-hoist dump system for stockpiling. The L-3020's standard 30-inch-wide conveyor system virtually eliminates the material bridging that's common with narrower conveyor spreaders. The versatile L-3020 broadcasts ag-lime at rates up to six tons per acre and fertilizer at rates as low as 150 pounds per acre.

Other Available Features:

- Complete body in 304 or 409 stainless steel
- Mounts on vehicles equipped with highway, semi or full flotation tires
- An optional ladder that attaches to either the left-or,right-hand-side of the unit
- Optional heat-and petroleum - resistant conveyor belting available for transport and application of hot asphalt.

NATIONAL FARM SAFETY AND HEALTH WEEK
SEPTEMBER 17-23, 1995

You Can Make Every Week Farm Safety And Health Week

We want you to work safely around your farm every week. Start by avoiding unnecessary risks when operating the PTO and when transporting equipment. Plus, be sure your tractor is geared for safety, by getting it equipped with a free kit to help prevent bypass starting. And install a Rollover Protective Structure (ROPS) on your tractor to help reduce the risk of injury or death due to tractor overturns. We have ROPS for most John Deere tractors built since 1960. Rigid ROPS starting at $250; foldable from $395. Make safety your top priority during National Farm Safety and Health Week, and every week.

FOR THE SPECIAL NEEDS OF OLDER HORSES.

Each horse shows its own particular signs of aging.

Some start with teeth problems. Others suffer digestion loss of 10-20%. Still others show declining hair coat or body condition, aging bones and joints, anemia or allergies.

But you can minimize the impact of these problems and keep your horse as healthy as possible with proper care, regular veterinary check-ups and the right feed.

Research shows that older horses need a higher level of protein, more digestible energy and fiber and different levels of minerals and vitamins in their diet.

Now there's a feed specifically formulated for older horses.

New Equine Senior™ from Purina.

Its unique feed form is easier to chew and digest. It also offers great palatability and improved skin and hair coat condition. It has the higher levels of C and B vitamins older horses need. Plus trace minerals and adjusted levels of fat and protein to meet the special needs of older horses.

AMERICA'S LEADER IN HORSE NUTRITION.

Look for Equine Senior at your Purina dealer and make these years your horse's best years.

After all, he's earned it.
